

Nations Far Apart On Navy Problems As Parley Starts

Great Britain Proposes Cut in Size of Battleships, Cruisers, Aircraft Carriers and Guns.

STATUS QUO SUITS JAPANESE ENVOYS

American View, However, Is That Standards Set at Washington Meet Must Be Undisturbed.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 20.—(AP)—Naval problems vitally affecting the future security of the United States were raised by Japan and Great Britain at the tripartite naval conference which opened here today. France and Italy have "observers" at the conference.

Though carefully avoiding talking terms and figures, Japan virtually recommended the maintenance of the status quo in cruisers, destroyers and submarines, with prohibition on building additional warships.

Reopening the Washington conference, Great Britain urged reducing size of battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers and also size of their guns. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, argued that the British proposals would involve a genuine reduction of armaments and bring great economies.

U. S. Objects To Plans.

The first American reaction to the recommendation of Japan is that it would strangle future American freedom in naval construction, and to the recommendations of Great Britain that it would at least be difficult to have any thought of accepting them. It is admitted that the British suggestions mean limitation downward, not upward. But aside from the objection of reconsidering the Washington treaty, with France and Italy, co-signatories, absent, the Americans gravely doubt the wisdom of decreasing the size of battleships and cruisers, and especially cruiser guns, which was fixed at Washington after due regard for the needs of American national safety and with approval of the five participating powers.

Hugh S. Gibson, who was elected president after the adoption of a cordial message of greeting to President Coolidge for convening the conference, proposed in behalf of the American delegation maximum and minimum total tonnage figures slightly under the existing strength, but on the basis of the ratio of five for the United States and Great Britain and three for Japan, and pledged an American welcome for lower figures, if

PARDON GRANTED TO MISS WHITNEY

Governor Ends 7-Year Battle Over Noted Case of Criminal Syndicalism in California.

Sacramento, Calif., June 20.—(AP)—Charlotte Anita Whitney, Oakland social worker, today was saved from a 1 to 14 year term in San Quentin prison for her part in the California criminal syndicalism act, winning a complete pardon from Governor C. C. Young.

The governor's decision, announced after several weeks of studying the records of the case from the Alameda county superior court in the State supreme court, where her conviction was upheld on May 26, ended a fight of more than seven years to keep Miss Whitney out of prison.

"The governor gave me his reasons for the issuance of the pardon: 'Because I do not believe that under ordinary circumstances this case would ever have been brought to trial.'

"Because the criminal syndicalism act was primarily intended to apply to organizations actually known as advocates of violence, terrorism or sabotage, rather than to such organizations as a communist labor party."

"Because the judges who have been connected with the case as well as the authors and some of the strongest advocates of the law under which Miss Whitney was convicted unite in urging that a pardon be granted."

"Because not only the evidence at the trial, but also the testimony of all the witnesses, including Miss Whitney herself, possibly serve a harmful purpose by reviving the warring spirits of radicals, through making her their martyr."

"Because whatever may be thought as to the folly of her misdirected sympathies, Miss Whitney, lifelong friend of the unfortunate, in any true sense, is not a criminal and to condemn her 60 years of age, to a felon's cell is an action which is absolutely unthinkable."

PINK LADY BIG HIT AT NIGHT OPERA DEBUT

Lilting Tunes Capture Large Audience at Premiere and New Principals Win Applause.

SMOOTHNESS MARKS 1ST PERFORMANCE

New Records Predicted for Season as Enthusiastic Crowd Leaves Erlanger Theater.

By Paul Stevenson.

In a blaze of color and splendor, with its lilting tunes, its bubbling and spicy humor, "The Pink Lady" inaugurated the third annual season of comic opera Monday night at the Erlanger theater, and as sung by this year's company before one of the most brilliant and representative audiences ever assembled in Atlanta, more than fulfilled all expectations and gave promise that this season will surpass in nearly every respect the successes scored here in past years.

Bringing an entirely new company of principals, with the exception of Louis Templeton, popular baritone, "The Pink Lady" afforded numerous opportunities for all the new stars, and as produced Monday night under the direction of Lewis J. Morton proved to be one of the most pleasing musical comedies ever presented in Atlanta by any company in any theater.

As the big audience left the theater after the show Monday night nothing but praise was heard for the lavish presentation of Ivan Caryll's musical comedy masterpiece and predictions were freely made that this year's company will hang up new high records in local comic opera history.

Always "The Pink Lady" has been an "all company" show and was created for no particular star. Its brilliant and sparkling ensembles, its colorful settings, its saucy and playful atmosphere, the lively animation of its choruses and dances have made it one of the outstanding musical comedies of all time, and as sung Monday night it scored one of the biggest successes ever won here. Barring some waits between acts, due to the fact that the stage crew was having a little trouble with the first time, the performance was presented with amazing smoothness, despite the fact that it was close to midnight before the final curtain fell.

Happy Selection.

As the initial offering of the new season no more charming production could have been selected than "The Pink Lady" and the new principals engaged by the Atlanta Municipal Opera company were fortunate in appearing for the first time in a show which gave them all plenty to do. There was no big triumphal part for any one star but the biggest hits of the show were scored by Miss Claire Madeline, who played the prima donna, Louise Templeton, debonair as ever; Roland Woodruff, light comedian; dainty little Madeline McMahon, soprano; and the tenor, tenor, Eugene Arcaro, contralto; Richard Powell, comic.

CIRCULATION MEN OPEN WORK TODAY

Greatest Convention Ever Held Looked for by President Payne of National Association.

Much "inside stuff" about the methods great newspapers use to get baseball extras and other extras on the streets with the utmost dispatch, the best and most efficient means to use to see that "Old Subscriber" gets his paper promptly and regularly by carriers, and matters pertaining to various contests conducted to increase subscriptions will be discussed at the Biltmore hotel today when the 29th annual convention of the International Circulation Managers' association opens.

In the vanguard of the circulation managers who are in Atlanta to attend one of the most important conventions ever held here is Charles Payne, president of the Indianapolis Star, president of the association, who arrived Monday. Mr. Payne was enthusiastic over the program of entertainment provided for the visitors by Atlanta and expressed his pleasure at visiting this city again.

"This is the first time I have visited Atlanta since the association met here in 1917, and at that time the city was new, taking its part in preparing for the world war," he said.

"Although the city had a hard task on its hands, the people found time to give the visitors to our convention one of the best times they ever had and I have heard many number of our members expressing pleasure over the fact that we are meeting in Atlanta this year. In many respects this will be the busiest and most important meeting we have ever held."

More than 300 circulation executives coming from all the states of the union and many foreign countries will attend the convention. The officers of the association and members of the auditing committee, entertainment committee

All Georgia Body Formed to Further Highway Building

Joint Committee From House and Senate To Be Formed With Citizens' Association.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN BEING CONSIDERED

Group Is Brought Together Following Meeting at President's Club; Wilkinson Is Head.

Organization of an All-Georgia association for the express purpose of studying an entirely new plan whereby it is claimed a complete trunk line system of all-weather permanent highways can be built in this state within the next five years, with a view to recommending the necessary legislation to the general assembly, was effected Monday night at a dinner given by the Presidents' Club of Atlanta at the Biltmore hotel.

Details of the proposed plan for building Georgia's highways-to-be were carefully considered by the association, in cooperation with a joint committee to be appointed by the house and the senate, and then, if the plan appears practicable and suitable, the proper legislation will be drawn for enactment, it was decided at the meeting.

This action of the assembly of legislators, state officials and citizens called together by the Presidents' club was taken through resolutions introduced at the close of the session by Barry Wright, of Rome, and Earl R. Wilkinson, president of the Presidents' club, was named as chairman of a general committee which will be the nucleus of the All-Georgia association.

The plan for building Georgia's permanent trunk highways as proposed Monday night at the dinner, calls for creation of a highway authority, a corporation similar to the port authority of New York, which will issue bonds and pave the roads, the bonds to be paid off from the gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license funds, to be diverted to the highway authority by the legislature.

No general endorsement was given the plan Monday night, due to the short time for consideration of the proposal, though individual speakers highly commended the proposition as a sound one and the logical solution of Georgia's perennial and most troubling problem, that of highway building.

Joint Committee Sought.

Under the resolutions adopted at the meeting, the general committee will be requested to appoint a joint committee from the house and senate to study the plan and to develop it, if found feasible and desirable. There will also be formed a voluntary association to be called the All Georgia association for the study of highway problems, of which all persons present at the banquet Monday night are invited to become members, and of which the following are asked to be honoraries.

Coolidge's Wife Catches Fish in Time For Lunch

SIoux PLAN CELEBRATION FOR PRESIDENT

Rapid City, S. D., June 20.—(United News.)—The Coolidges are gaining respectful prominence as anglers in this hills country, where they consider ability to build a steer or hook a trout, of more social importance than being president of the United States or first lady of the land.

Following her husband's success with the rod and reel, Mrs. Grace Coolidge, considered the best tea hostess Washington ever had, donned rubber boots, a slicker, short skirts and slouch hat and started out for Squaw creek.

It was the first time she has ever been fishing.

Although the day was rainy and a light hail storm had just passed, she hooked one "fair-sized" speckled trout, thereby adding to the reputation of the family. She took it back to the log-built summer white house, and there served it to her husband for lunch. She used worms for bait as her husband does, and she baited her own hook.

Coolidge was pleased at the success of the first lady on her first fishing venture. He spent the morning at his office in the high school building. Pastboard has been tacked in the holes in the windows, where hail cracked them last Friday. He worked at his desk until noon and then returned through a drizzling rain to the lodge over mountain roads which are hazardous when wet.

His first announcement was to the effect that Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol had resigned as high commissioner to Turkey and that Bristol had been assigned as commander in chief of the Asiatic squadron. Coolidge made public a letter to Bristol in which the admiral was congratulated for his promotion of American diplomacy in Turkey.

SCHOOL PLANS DELAY RAPPED BY COMMISSION

Commission Asks Immediate Action on Projects Under First $1,000,000 Allocation.

NEED OF BUILDING WORK IS STRESSED

Lack of Drawings Is Explored After '11-Months' Board Has Had Expansion Under Advisement.

Chafing under what is termed "unnecessary delay" in starting work on projects approved in the first $1,000,000 allocation of bond funds for school purposes, the Atlanta bond commission Monday passed resolutions requesting the Atlanta board of education to instruct G. Lloyd Preacher, school architect, to prepare working plans, and in addition asked that a program for administration of the second $1,000,000 be worked out immediately.

These resolutions were approved unanimously by the bond commission on the eve of a meeting to be held this afternoon by the board to consider allocation of the whole school bond allocation, and elicited a statement from Dr. A. M. Eubanks, president of the board, to the effect that the board will consider the entire program which has been offered by the administration department.

In addition to requesting that all allocations be submitted in $1,000,000 lots, the resolutions of the bond commission scored the board for failure to provide working plans, and pointed out that the school board is no nearer beginning of actual construction on projects contemplated from administration of school bond funds, than it was eleven months ago.

The commission also voted to set up a fund of $40,000 for architectural service on the first $1,000,000 worth of bonds to be administered, and turned down curtly several proposals to purchase several strips of land to add to school grounds already under operation.

Another important feature of the session was a resolution commending Will L. Hancock, chairman of the school contact committee of the commission, for his stand in a controversy with the administration department of the school system relative to alleged illegal authorization of preliminary drawings.

In connection with the delay, Mr. Hancock pointed out that the school board has procrastinated until on July 1 the entire $3,500,000 for school purposes will be available, and yet

ARMS CONSPIRACY CHARGED TO FIVE

Wealthy Head of Pacific Company Admits Selling 'Millions of Dollars' Worth of Munitions.

Los Angeles, June 20.—(AP)—Complaints charging violation of the United States neutrality law were filed here today against J. B. Manserhan, wealthy head of the Pacific Arms company, of San Francisco; Captain Andrew Olsen, skipper of the schooner Prosper, and two others as the result of the seizure Saturday of a shipment of munitions believed to have been destined for Mexican revolutionists.

Ruillermo Rosas, Jr., Mexican attorney, said to have acted formerly as counsel for General Felix Diaz of Mexico, and Ralph O. Saunders, driver of a motor truck containing $50,000 worth of arms and ammunition brought here from San Francisco for shipment on an unidentified vessel, were the others named in the complaints.

Meanwhile reports were circulated at the federal building that secret service agents had evidence indicating that $2,000,000 worth of modern arms had been shipped and secreted somewhere in Mexico.

Manserhan admitted prior to his arrest that he had sold "millions of dollars' worth" of munitions for delivery within the United States, but he said he did not know for what purpose or ultimate destination they were purchased.

After Captain Olsen, whose schooner lay berthed in San Pedro harbor while government agents watched the big pile of war munitions standing on the dock, had been questioned, it was reported that he was prepared to name a group of ship owners, together with a judge occupying a bench outside of Los Angeles county, as being connected with illicit traffic in war supplies. Two other men, Harry L. Claffer, engineer, and Fay H. Corley, both of San Pedro, were arrested, but formal complaints have not been issued against them.

Council Retains Old School Board And Fund System

BRITISH PREPARE TO ENTER CONTEST FOR AIR LAURELS

KEEP 26 PER CENT REVENUE BASIS

Official Ballots Show Heavy Majority in Favor of Retaining Old Plan.

Direct reversal of a former ruling of city council was made Monday when that body voted to retain the present school board, the method of electing it and to keep in the city charter a provision that a minimum of 26 per cent of all revenue of the city be allocated for operation and maintenance of the Atlanta public schools.

At the last meeting of council, that body voted to abolish the present board fifteen days after the governor should sign a proposed charter amendment and to permit city council to select another from nominations of ward delegations in general council.

In addition, council at its last session voted to eliminate a present provision of the city charter calling for appropriation of the 26 per cent minimum for school purposes. Monday both provisions were withdrawn by heavy majorities.

At the present time, neither city council nor the mayor have power over any expenditure of the board of education, but under provisions which will go to the Georgia legislature for disbursement as charter amendments, all disbursements of the board will be subject to approval of the mayor and council, and in addition the board will have fourteen members, the mayor and chairman of the school committee of city council being ex-officio members.

Atlanta's lawmakers spent more than an hour Monday afternoon debating the advisability of striking out the provision calling for abolition of the 26 per cent minimum from a paper to be offered to the Georgia legislature. The vote stood 27 to 4 in favor of leaving this provision in the charter.

Moore, Hartfield, Ashler, Couch, Gann, Buchanan, Williamson, Ford, Murphy and House, all the aldermen present, and Turner, McCutcheon, White, Vaughan, Bowden, Hardy, York, Osburn, Moore, Russell, Savage, Callaway, Cooper, Suddeth, Johnson, Smith and Saunders voted to retain the present provision. Huie, Chesebrough, Barrett and Orme cast ballots against it.

The vote was taken following a hard fought but unsuccessful attempt by Councilman Harry E. White, of the sixth ward, to pass a substitute which would have permitted the finance committee of city council to set a "certain" percentage of city funds to be set aside for school purposes.

Mr. York contended that this would be a set amount, that the school department could now take the very penny how much money it would receive and that this would automatically eliminate "the excuse that the money was not available for appropriation and runs a heavy deficit."

Councilmen John A. White, of the fourth ward, and W. H. Saunders, of the 12th ward, were authors of the

COUNCIL TO SEEK ANNEXATION RIGHT

Decides By One Vote Majority To Ask Permission of the Legislature.

Council by a majority of only one vote Monday decided to ask the Georgia legislature to permit the city to annex that section of Druid Hills, now outside Atlanta city limits. This action was taken following a hard fight led by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, and superseded a report of the charter revision committee on the proposal. The vote was 14 to 13. Councilman W. E. Saunders casting the last vote to break a 13 to 13 tie.

A feature of the debate was a heated verbal clash between Mr. White and Councilman C. J. Vaughan, also of the fourth ward, and chairman of the charter revision committee.

Alderman Oscar H. Williamson, of the ninth ward, offered an amendment which would prevent annexation unless a majority of citizens in the area affected vote for annexation.

Councilman A. J. Orme and other members of council contended that the property is undeveloped and that the city can not afford to spend money on it.

A proposal by Councilman Harry E. White, to limit operation of Atlanta fire department to the city limits only, was referred to the Atlanta fire board for consideration.

This was regarded as a retaliation to opposition of citizens in the affected area to annexation proposals.

PROTECTION

weather

—both in one roof at one cost!

OF course you have to have shingles on that house of yours. And if your home is to be truly modern, you have to have an "under roof" of some insulating material to hold in the heat in winter, to keep out the heat in summer.

Now, in the new Carey Cork-Insulated Shingle, you have both—weather-protection plus insulation! For this shingle has an under surface of cork. It keeps bedrooms warm in winter by "corking up" the heat that would escape through the roof. It keeps bedrooms cool in summer by shedding the heat that beats down on the roof.

Yet you pay no more for this wonderful Carey shingle than you would for many an ordinary shingle. No extra cost for special insulating material or for the labor of applying it. And you get beauty!—the attractive coloring of a natural slate surface, and the deep, artistic shadow-lines which this 50% thicker shingle provides.

Whether you're planning to buy a roof or not, see this Carey shingle. See it in all its beautiful shades. You will see the biggest shingle value for the money ever offered!

KLAN IS ACCUSED BY CONVICTED MEN

New Orleans, June 20.—(AP)—What was believed to be the last attack in the fight to save Byron Dunn from the noose was made here today when application for a writ of habeas corpus was filed, charging that Robert and Byron Dunn were convicted of murder by a court in which judge, jury and witnesses were either dominated or intimidated by the Ku Klux Klan. The Dunn brothers previously had carried their case to the portals of the supreme court of the United States, only to lose at each stage of the game. The supreme court refused to review the case, deciding that it was in the jurisdiction of the state courts.

The two brothers were convicted of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Sam Dunn, in Calcasieu parish. Recommendation that the sentence of Robert Dunn be commuted to life imprisonment was made last week by the pardon board. Byron Dunn is under sentence to be hanged Friday, June 24.

The application charged that the two were "railroaded" by a court "operated under the supervision of the Klan," alleges that Judge Jerry Cline, presiding officer in the trial court, is a charter member of the organization, as is Sheriff J. Harris Lyons, of Calcasieu parish, and that E. Claude House, clerk of the court, and Sam Dunn, the slain man, were Klansmen.

"The court was packed with Klansmen and some persons eager to serve on the jury, denied relationship with Deputy Sheriff Dunn to prevent their disqualification for service," the petition said. One such specific instance was mentioned.

"William E. Gray, a millionaire and Klansman, sat on an elevated chair near the judge with a pistol in one pocket and a bottle of whiskey in the other," it said, alleging that he threatened persons interested in the defense of the brothers.

Defense witnesses and attorneys were threatened and intimidated in the courtroom, it alleged, and two such witnesses were prevented from testifying, while attorneys were unable to hold private consultations with their clients by persistence of Klansmen remaining in the room, despite requests of the trial judge that they leave.

"A Klan manipulator" was alleged to have winked at the jury at times during the taking of evidence and communication with members of the jury received messages from their families.

The petition charged that early in the trial the court came under the complete domination of the Klan and remained under such dominance until the verdict was brought in.

the other nations so desired. At the same time he threw out a politely phrased warning that the United States would doubtless resort to extensive building if an agreement at Geneva were found impossible.

Business-Like Proceedings. Today's entire proceedings were crisp and business-like, with the delegates and public alike leaning forward in rapt attention as if realizing perfectly that mighty things depended upon the weighty words which fell from the lips of Mr. Gibson, Mr. Bridgman and Admiral Saito.

The proposals of all three delegations will be combined if possible into a single harmonious project. It will not be easy, everybody admits, because the difficulties presented are greater than expected. Yet all the delegates tonight are giving the suggestions of their fellows earnest attention, without anybody saying: "It is impossible." The Japanese admitted that Japan will maintain her present cruiser strength, which is only slightly under the American. The British contented that by extending the life of battleships from 20 to 26 years, the United States and Great Britain will build six fewer battleships in the next decade than stipulated in the Washington agreement, and Japan four fewer.

The other main British proposals included reducing the size of future battleships from 35,000 to 30,000 tons and of their guns from 16-inch to 15-1/2-inch, making aircraft carriers smaller by 2,000 tons and limiting the size of future cruisers to 7,500 tons, and their guns to 6-inch, instead of 8-inch.

10,000-Ton Cruisers. The Americans have been pointing out that 10,000-ton cruisers are needed in America to cover distant points like the Far East, where America has no naval bases, and that a 6-inch gun limit would give nations having big merchant fleets an immense advantage, as these could immediately be converted into an auxiliary war fleet by mounting 6-inch guns, whereas 8-inch guns are too big for utilization by merchantmen. England, therefore, would have an advantage because of superior size.

As the United States is building big long distance submarines, adoption of the British proposal to limit the size to 6-inch guns also would hit the American building program.

The next public session of the conference has not been fixed. The executive committee will meet privately tomorrow morning to appoint technical committees to begin the task of comparing the three schemes before the conference.

Drastic British Proposal. The British proposals are far more drastic than the American, admiralty experts asserted tonight after examining both. Stress is laid on the fact that the British suggest smaller tonnage and guns for cruisers and a deluge of submarines, while the United States plan contains no provision for reducing the size of individual ships.

As one expert observed: "The Americans merely propose to extend the 5-5-3 ratio to cruisers, destroyers and submarines. The British made a scheme provides for longer lives for ships, thereby affording the taxpayers considerable relief."

The American proposal to limit the total tonnage for each category of vessels based on the ratio 5-5-3, one spokesman remarked, "really means that the United States would have power to add to the cruiser tonnage very considerably, while Great Britain would have to reduce the strength of her own cruisers."

The Japanese proposals were likewise criticized as providing too short lives for ships. One of the Japanese delegates said that Great Britain's plan is a very big step beyond what we consented to take at Washington. We did considerable scrapping of ships even before the Washington conference.

The Japanese are examining both British and American proposals in silence, but the British deem it extremely doubtful that Japan will consent to the 5-5-3 ratio for cruisers.

AMERICAN DELEGATION EXPLAINS PROPOSAL.

Geneva, June 20.—(AP)—The American delegation this evening issued a statement explaining the nature of their proposal and giving an approximate estimate of the tonnage that would have to be scrapped providing existing construction programs were completed.

The United States, this communication maintains, would have to scrap immediately about 60,000 tons of auxiliary and combatant surface vessels and 80,000 additional tons of such craft upon completion of its present building program. While Great Britain similarly would have to scrap about 60,000 tons in the same categories upon the completion of her present program, Japan's reduction is put at about 40,000 tons.

"If plans outlined in the American proposal were adopted on the basis of 30,000 tons of submarines for the United States and the British Empire respectively and 54,000 tons for Japan," the statement reads, "no scrapping of submarines would be necessary until the present building programs were brought to completion."

Most of the vessels to be scrapped under the American plan, it is pointed out, are now, or soon will be, obsolete. "This plan," the statement concludes, "stops competitive building, which is the chief object of this conference, avoids scrapping new construction and permits moderate replacement and building programs within clearly defined limits."

"If a lower limit of total tonnage of cruiser, destroyer and submarine classes were agreed to the scrapping programs would be correspondingly increased and possible building programs would be curtailed."

MESSAGE OF GREETING IS SENT TO PRESIDENT.

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—A message of greeting and respect was transmitted to President Coolidge today from the conference at Geneva by the limitation of naval armament at Geneva by Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland and secretary general of the conference.

The message read: "Profoundly and cordially appreciating the humane and wise initiative of the president of the United States in convening the present conference with a view to a further reduction of the burden and danger of naval armament, the delegates assembled desire to tender to him this expression of their highest respect and their strong hope of a most satisfactory result."

COMPETITIVE BUILDING IN EVENT OF FAILURE.

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—Failure of agreement at the Geneva naval armament limitation conference would be followed immediately by a resumption of competitive building with the new congress immediately passing the bill for 10 fast new 10,000-ton cruisers, Representative Britten, of Illinois, ranking republican on the house naval committee, predicted today.

"The American proposal," he said, "is full, frank and one which will impress the world with our desire to limit naval expenditures and its rejection by Great Britain and Japan can only bring about a resumption of the race for naval supremacy, which, however costly, will be carried forward energetically by the United States."

"If the Geneva conference fails of agreement, I am confident that the coming congress will immediately pass the bill for 10 additional 10,000-ton fast cruisers which was recommended by President Coolidge in the closing days of the last congress."

"With a $500,000,000 treasury surplus this year, the question for congress to decide will be: 'Is reduced armament more important than the national defense?'"

Comparative Data.

Comparative data on modern cruiser strength of the United States, Great Britain and Japan shows that the United States has but 18 ships of this type built, in the building or authorized, totaling 155,000 tons, while Great Britain has 57 totaling 338,000 tons, and Japan 29 totaling 190,205 tons.

Ten of the American first-line cruisers are of 7,500 tons each and were built since the war, while two more, of 10,000 tons, the Pensacola and Salt Lake City, are building and six of a similar tonnage have been authorized and appropriated for.

Great Britain has 40 modern cruisers built, totaling 154,200 tons: 11 building, aggregating 110,000 tons, and six totaling 54,000 tons authorized. Japan has 19 built, totaling 102,005 tons, a building, aggregating 54,200 tons and four authorized, totaling 40,000 tons.

In addition to the ten 7,500-ton cruisers, the United States now has in commission six old armored and second-line cruisers, all of which under the American 20-year age limit proposal would be eligible for replacement now and 15 old second-line cruisers out of commission which were built between 1895 and 1908.

Six Old Cruisers.

The six old cruisers in commission are the Seattle, commissioned in 1908; the Pittsburgh, 1905; Galveston, 1905; Denver, 1904; Cleveland, 1903; and the Rochester, 1903.

Comparative figures for destroyers have not been brought up to date. The United States, however, is known to have a preponderance in this type of ship, although 172 of her total of 246 are in the line up, as against 100 of the British and 100 of the Japanese.

The destroyers in commission, which average around 1,150 tons each, number 112, including six mine layers. The remaining destroyers, 23 in number, have been turned over to the coast guard for prohibition enforcement work. They are of the old type, having been commissioned between 1911 and 1914.

CUT IN SIZE OF SHIPS URGED BY BRITAIN.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 20.—(AP)—The British delegation declared that the armament race would never end until nations agreed upon the size of individual warships and made these warships as small as possible, in an exclusive statement to the Associated Press tonight.

When the correspondent pointed out that the British proposals contained no total tonnage figures for auxiliary war craft, the spokesman replied that the British were not interested in fixing such fixation if there was an agreement of lessening the size of individual ships.

The British, he continued, were more interested in having a sufficient number of cruisers than other warships because they needed them to protect trade routes. When attention was called to the fact that the British proposal concerning cruisers means the eventual disappearance of the 10,000-ton cruisers authorized by Washington, the spokesman admitted the truth of this, but added:

"U. S. Superiority."

The spokesman concluded by emphasizing the great superiority of the United States over Great Britain in destroyers and submarines and suggested the possibility of reach an accord to allow the United States to maintain destroyers in lieu of additional cruisers, instead of scrapping destroyers under the 5-5-3 ratio.

The Americans remark that the existence of numerous British naval bases including those near the American coast, give Great Britain a vast superiority if smaller cruisers are decided upon, because bases increase the value of small cruisers. But the United States, having few bases, needs large-size cruisers, which must be able to cover long distances without refueling or repairs.

The most reliable opinion is that the American naval board will oppose the reduction in size of either battleships or cruisers, or at least will favor postponing the question to a second Washington conference, to be held in 1931, with France and Italy present.

SOUTHERN RAIL MEN GET RAISE

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—An award of the special arbitration board announced today by the United States board of mediation, granted increases in pay ranging from 35 to 40 cents a day for firemen, hostlers and helpers on 12 southeastern railroads.

Though the findings of the arbitrators will be accepted by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which represented the employees concerned, that organization's member of the arbitration board dissented on the ground that the increases granted were inadequate.

By terms of the award, firemen engaged in all classes of road services, except on passenger trains, were granted an increase of 40 cents per day, while the rate for all other employees involved was increased 35 cents per day. In addition, a minimum daily rate for firemen in passenger service was fixed at $5.00 and provisions added to classify pay rates in proportion to weights of all locomotives.

The railroad men who will receive the increase are employees of the Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Central of Georgia, Clinchfield, Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, Norfolk & Western, Norfolk Southern, Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac, Tennessee Central, and Jacksonville terminal.

NEGROES IN AUTO DASH INTO CROWD

Asheville, N. C., June 20.—(P)—Four persons are in a critical condition in Asheville hospitals today, the victims of the wild driving of a negro on the Waynesville highway near Clyde last night. Three others are in hospitals with severe but not fatal injuries and at least five others were recovering from minor wounds.

The accident occurred at 9 o'clock last night when an automobile driven by Julian Whitmore, 17-year-old Canton negro, plunged into a crowd of 50 persons assembled on the highway to watch a wrecker pull an automobile from a ditch.

Whitmore and his two male companions in the automobile are in Buncombe county jail without bail to await the outcome of the inquiries of the wounded.

The injured are Max Rogers, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rogers, of Canton, whose skull was injured; Mrs. J. C. Taylor, of West Asheville, broken pelvis and internal injuries; Carrie Byers, of Clyde, fractured pelvis; F. E. Bronson, of Canton, broken leg, which probably will be amputated; A. G. Russell, chief of police of Canton; Hugh Snyder, of Clyde, broken arm and lacerated head; Charles Bronson, of Clyde, brother of F. E. Bronson, left foot crushed, ankle broken and lacerations over entire body.

ALL GEORGIA BODY WILL BOOST ROADS

any members: The governor and all state house officers, members of the state highway board, the chief engineer of the state highway department, the state auditor, the daily and weekly press of the state. In addition to the honorary members, all other citizens of the state who may notify the committee, to be appointed by Mr. Wilkinson, of their desire to become members will become members.

Membership in the association, ac-ording to the resolutions, shall entail no obligations for dues or assessments and binds a member to no obligation except to serve the state by giving his aid and counsel to the state in the carrying out of the highway interests. An executive committee is to be appointed to carry on the affairs of the association when that body is not in session.

Highlights of the banquet program included addresses by Governor Clifford Walker, Charles D. Upham, for chief highway engineer of the states of Delaware and North Carolina and now a member of the national research council in charge of highways at Washington, D. C.; former State Senator Pat Harrison, of Union county; Judge Arthur G. Powell, president of the Atlanta Bar association; Henry Grady Bell, attorney for the Deatur county commissioners; Robert Pegram, vice president of the Southern railway and of the Atlanta & Low National bank; C. C. McKnight, of Senoia, and others.

In discussing the legality of the proposed highway paying plan, Judge Powell assured the assemblage of the soundness of the proposition, and said that his investigation had proved the plan is entirely legal under the state constitution without a shadow of a doubt.

Progress Follows.

Conferences with other Georgia attorneys and with lawyers of New York city revealed that he is not alone in this opinion, Judge Powell said, and that the plan is sound. He pointed out that this plan has been evolved to meet the ideas of both schools of thought in the matter of highway building, both those who oppose the pledging of the credit of the state to secure funds for this purpose and those who desire the most rapid completion possible without issuing bonds.

Details of the plan, as read from a prospectus prepared by the President's club, at C. V. Holenstein, executive secretary of the President's club, at Monday night's meeting, follow in full:

"Several well-known gentlemen from New York, who, however, having interests in the south, while sitting in a company of Georgians, casually asked the question: 'Why does not Georgia build a road system to be proud of and finance it in the way New York financed the construction of her port facilities?'

"The New Yorker went on to explain how, under the financial guidance of certain great business executives and the legal guidance of two of the nation's greatest lawyers, the legislature of that state created a corporation called the port authority. It was legally a distinct separate corporate being; and yet a state instrumentality under the control of the state. It was authorized to take charge of the port and to construct the needed port facilities. To provide funds, this corporation, the port authority, was authorized to issue its bonds, securing the same by a pledge of the revenues of the port. To the users of the facilities throughout a long period to pay off the bonds. When the bonds are paid off the entire properties of the port authority revert to and belong to the state of New York.

"No Debt Incurred.

"The state has incurred no debt. It is not in any way liable for the obligations of the port authority. 'But one of the most important points is that these bonds issued by the port authority have been held to be exempt from state and federal income taxes on the ground of being a state instrumentality; and therefore sell at a very low rate of interest and are keenly sought after by investors.

"The users of the port pay for the ports and in the end the state owns them without having paid anything for them.

"By analogy, the plan in Georgia would be to turn over the roads to a corporation, let the corporation build and improve them, issue the corporation's obligations against the highway revenues, let the users of the roads pay for them and then let the improved roads revert to the state.

"Who should compose the Georgia corporation? The state highway board, of course.

"How shall the users of the roads be made to pay for them? Through the gasoline taxes and motor vehicle licenses.

Department Plans.

"The plan, therefore, is that the state highway department be left as it is for all administrative purposes; but for financial purposes, the members of the board be created by legislative authority into a distinct separate corporation which in analogy to the New York corporation we will call the highway authority.

"The highway department specifies what roads are to be constructed or improved. It prepares the plans and specifications and notifies its own members, as the directors of the highway authority, to let the contract and finance the project.

"The highway authority issues its debentures payable in 20 or 25 years, or whatever time may be decided on, sells them and pays for the work.

"To pay off these debentures the state appropriates to the highway authority for the period they are to run all the revenues derived from motor fuel taxes and motor vehicle licenses, except such as are required to pay the expenses of the highway department (now limited to 6 per cent and actually not running that high) and to pay the cost of maintenance, unless the highway authority shall also take maintenance under its financing. Special provision would have to be made for the reserving of sufficient funds to match federal aid.

Sinking Fund.

"The excess of these annual revenues over the special funds just mentioned and beyond what is required to pay the annual interest on the debentures, go into a sinking fund, invested in interest-bearing securities, deposited in the state treasury, which will accumulate and pay off the debentures when they mature.

"The debentures issued by the authority would not be debts of the state; the state would have neither moral nor legal liability toward them, except to see that gasoline taxes and taxes on other motor fuels and automobile licenses were provided for by a constant levy at not less than the presently existing rate throughout the life of the obligations. They would be solely the debts of the corporation, the highway authority.

"But since the highway authority is an instrumentality in the service of the state, its debentures would be exempt from all taxes, state and federal. So would be the funds in the sinking fund.

"Calculations made by accountants show that on the basis of the debentures being made to mature within 25 years, for each million dollars of gasoline and motor vehicle taxes which can be annually turned over to the highway authority, it can pay off the principal and interest on between four and eight million dollars of debentures, dependent on the rate of interest borne by the debentures and the rate earned on the sinking fund.

"In other words, the highway authority can sell approximately $15,000,000 of such debentures against each million dollars of annual revenues. Ten million of annual revenues will discharge about 150,000,000 of debentures.

1927 Revenue.

"In the current report of the highway department the estimated revenues for 1927 are approximately $12,000,000 and they are yearly increasing. If within the next five years they are maintained in point of value as much as $10,000,000 annually can be applied to the debentures of the highway authority and the maintenance of its sinking funds, $15,000,000 can be realized to be used in the next five years to give Georgia as fine a system of paved permanent highway as there is in the United States—one or two of the richer states possibly excepted. The plan thus outlined was first submitted to lawyers in Georgia. They studied it carefully and reported that the plan was legally sound; that the legislature could adopt it without any constitutional amendment.

"An interview was then sought with one of the largest and most reputable bond houses in America and the plan laid before them. They studied it and submitted it to their legal counsel.

"They reported the plan financially and legally sound and that the highway authority's debentures could be sold at a low rate of interest if certain features could be legally or practically guaranteed.

"What guarantee is there? they asked, 'if the legislature the year levies the gasoline and motor vehicle taxes and appropriates them to the highway authority some subsequent legislature may not repeal or lower the levy or repeal the appropriation?'

"An answer was found—a practical answer that satisfied the bankers and the lawyers.

Toll Road Levies.

"Let the highway authority be authorized to exercise the power, now resting in the state, to levy tolls on the roads to pay off the debentures, and to pledge these tolls as security for the debentures, but with the proviso that no tolls should ever be levied on a road which has been repaid by the tolls. The legislature should repeal or lower the gasoline and motor vehicle taxes or should repeal the appropriation of them to the highway authority.

"It was realized, as a matter of course, that occasion to levy the tolls would never arise, because no legislature would ever dare to vote to change the law, if the effect of so doing would be to subject the roads to toll charges. The only effect of the provision as to the tolls would be to require the legislature to repeal or lower the gasoline and motor vehicle taxes or to repeal the appropriation of them to the highway authority.

"Another thing the bankers laid down as a condition to the marketability of the highway authority's debentures was that every detail should be worked out in such a way as to protect the state at every point.

"Readily, it can be seen that the legislature cannot afford to pass the indicated legislation and thus turn the presently established methods of financing its highways, without definite assurance that the debentures of the highway authority can be sold on a favorable basis and its continuous financing on prudent terms can be guaranteed. Therefore the plan should be definitely and accurately worked out and definite assurance be found that the debentures can be sold before the legislature finally acts on it. 'You have the plan. What will you do with it?'

Urges Distribution.

Urging construction of a twelve months' dependable highway system without unreasonable delay, Governor Walker, in one of his last addresses to the chief of the commonwealth before his retirement Saturday, said that Georgia must develop equalization of governmental benefits. 'You must,' he declared, 'realize the injustice of congregating the great taxable values in a narrow restricted community, building a wall around itself, providing every opportunity to its own people but making practically no provision for even the elemental benefits of government in the vast areas outside the community. You must provide a consolidated school in reach of every boy and girl in the country; you must guarantee the health of these people.'

Governor Walker said that while it would be unbecoming in him, in retiring, to point the way for future administrations; he did consider it within the proprieties to paint the picture of the present, to call attention to the needs of the state after four years of study and reflection. Half of the population drawn into community centers, with no thought of depriving others and yet recognizing their own needs, have built an invisible wall about their own corporate limits, providing for themselves without properly reflecting that this very process of congregating taxable values and segregating the taxes thereon has relatively left the other half of the people who live outside of their limit without adequate means of providing for their needs. The result is a large portion of the youth of the land to grow up in ignorance—a prey to passion, the fruitful subject of prejudice and intolerance which in far too many instances have brought shame to the fair name of Georgia, he declared.

Whole State Suffers.

"As a consequence," he said, "not only the neglected sections but the entire state has suffered. The state has suffered negatively in the failure to develop to full capacity the unlimited raw material in the potential man power from rural sources, sources near to nature and nature's gift—that wealth which when only partially developed in the past has furnished to Georgia its most illustrious sons. It has suffered positively in prejudice and intolerance and lack of vision in these widespread rural sections, retarding the development of the state."

Good schools and good churches in the country districts will not only lessen crime and corruption in the country and in the town but will develop a higher order of citizens able to produce wealth and multiply the patronage of the enterprises of the towns and cities, the governor said.

"You must provide the means for the state to build and pave the state highways, leaving to the counties, certainly to one-half of the weaker counties, the limited funds available for building county highways and for providing for consolidated schools, health officers, social workers, recreation facilities, libraries and other advantages which protect and enrich life," he said. Information furnished in connection with the plan, not as a part of the program but as useful in its study, showed that the state highway board reports a system of 7,048 miles of road with 3,330 miles completed or under construction, of which 804 miles are hard surfaced, 567 miles semi-hard surfaced (making 1,461 miles of what may be classed as permanent surfaced), and 2,600 miles of sand clay. This would leave 3,518 miles to grade, for which the highway board's report shows an average cost to state of $1,516 per mile or a total of $5,330,168.

$26,195 Per Mile.

If all the roads yet to be graded and all the roads now with a sand-clay top are to be ultimately completed with a first-class hard surface it would require 5,587 miles of hard surface, this calling for $146,238,633 at the board's average estimate of $26,195 per mile. It was shown. The total for grading and completely hard-surfacing all the balance of the state system would then be $162,238,853. The gasoline and motor vehicle taxes at present rates applied under this plan are sufficient, if used in connection with federal aid, to allow even this amount of money to be supplied in equal installments over a period of five years and to repay it in about twenty years, it was said.

Data collected by the Iowa State college in conjunction with the United States bureau of public roads shows 27 per cent greater gasoline consumption when traveling over ordinary dirt roads than when traveling over the best hard pavement. With a four-cent per gallon tax and gasoline at 24 cents a gallon, including tax, the saving to a motorist, over a fifteen-year period, due to the building of such a road system, would in effect be such as to reduce his average tax to one cent a gallon, while his saving over the same period, if the roads were built in five years, would be such as to give him his gasoline at an average price of one cent less than if there were no tax at all. It was said.

Supporters of the plan claim that it will give Georgia the roads now, and that they will be paid for only by those who use them; they will be paid for out of the taxes paid by the users of motor fuels and motor vehicles, and not out of taxes on property. The non-resident who rides over them will pay his part. It is not only a practical way of financing but it is a fair way of financing, it was stated.

A BATH TUB that tests automobiles

S-P-L-A-S-H through the bath tub goes the General Motors car. Out onto the slippery road it dashes. On go the brakes!

What is the reason for such torture of an innocent automobile?

The answer is that the engineers at the General Motors Proving Ground take nothing for granted. They want to know what happens when a car ploughs through water. They insist too on measuring, with special machines which they have built, just how quickly the car can be stopped and just how much pressure of the foot is required to stop it.

Altogether General Motors has 136 different tests by which cars are proved as they never have been proved before; nothing is left in doubt. All of which means that you are buying doubly assured safety, reliability and comfort when you choose a General Motors car.

Mrs. Lydig Is Drug Addict

CLAIMS SHE LIVED IN DR. GRANT'S HOME.

Former Butler Testifies

BY JOSEPH COWAN.
(Copyright, 1927, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, June 20.—Herman Johnson, for nine years butler for Mrs. Rita de Alba de Acosta Lydig, testified today in bankruptcy proceedings brought by the society woman's creditors, that his former mistress is a drug addict. Up to the time he left her service last December, Johnson declared, he frequently saw hypodermic needles in Mrs. Lydig's bathroom and Dr. Christian Hanson, a chiropractor, and Miss Bonnie, Mrs. Lydig's nurse, he said, told him his employer used morphine.

Johnson also swore that from March, 1921, to New Year's eve of that year, Mrs. Lydig, then engaged to marry the late Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, lived at the clergyman's country home in Bedford Hills, Westchester county. Dr. Grant, he asserted, lived there at the same time.

Harry H. Oshrin, attorney for Lady Mendi, formerly Elsie de Wolfe, one of Mrs. Lydig's creditors, and Charles C. Parmet, counsel to the trustee in bankruptcy, examined Johnson in the office of Referee Robert P. Stephenson. Johnson came to New York from San Francisco a few days ago to give information concerning Mrs. Lydig's assets and liabilities to Oshrin and Parmet. Mrs. Lydig, he swore, owes him $250 salary.

Johnson testified his former mistress possessed recently two $25,000 Chinchilla coats and a chest of silver worth $10,000 that were not listed with her assets. Oshrin and Parmet are seeking to trace these.

Until a few months ago, Johnson testified, Mrs. Lydig each month received checks ranging from $1,000 to $3,000 from Dr. John C. Vaughan. This money, said Johnson, came from the law offices of Anderson & Anderson, attorneys for the W. K. Vanderbilt estate.

"Mrs. Lydig uses a hypodermic," Johnson testified. "I never saw her take it myself but I saw the needles many times in her bathroom. Miss Bonnie, her nurse, told me she took morphine."

Dr. Hanson, a chiropractor, who treated her every morning for two years, told me she was taking the stuff. She took too much at times."

"Once she told me she was going to use the Vanderbilt estate for $100,000. She said she would buy a home with it to make me and her maid happy for the rest of our lives."

"Mrs. Lydig said the $100,000 was back money due to her since Vanderbilt died. Dr. Vaughan was getting her income for her and looking after some of the bills. He told me she was getting $40,000 a year."

"She used to send me to Dr. Vaughan's often to get the check from him and deposit it in the bank for her. I think he acted as a trustee for her, but I know he has given it up now and there is another doctor getting her checks."

MILLIONAIRE, 77, MARRIES FRIEND OF LIFETIME, 51

Washington, June 20.—(United News.)—Robert S. Brookings, 77-year-old millionaire and internationally known economist, eloped to Baltimore yesterday and married Miss Isabel V. January, 51, of St. Louis, it was revealed here today.

At Brookings' offices it was said he had known Miss January all of her life. The elopement was secret and friends of the aged philanthropist expressed surprise when he returned today and went with his bride to his residence in the fashionable northwest section of Washington.

Because of an attack of heart disease, Brookings recently spent three months in Florida regaining his health. On June 7, with Vice President Dawes, he delivered an address at the commencement exercises at Washington university, St. Louis, of which he was president for several years.

NEWS REPORTER TO FACE TRIAL IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Boston, Mass., June 20.—(United News.)—Governor Alvan T. Fuller this afternoon signed the extradition papers which will permit New Hampshire authorities to take Fred H. Thompson, Boston reporter, to that state for trial on a larceny charge.

Thompson is charged with larceny in connection with the theft of the May issue of the Atlantic Monthly Magazine, containing an article by Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

Edmund Whitman, counsel for Thompson, announced that he will fight for writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court tomorrow, which will automatically keep Thompson in this state until that court has passed upon the question of extradition.

Thompson is expected to leave St. Louis late Wednesday or Thursday. It is believed he will return to Washington to talk to government officials regarding his log of the trans-Atlantic flight.

Will Publish Log

Lindbergh will publish the log within a short time, and his publishers have urged that he complete work on it immediately.

While offers of sums totaling millions of dollars have been offered Lindbergh and his associates, they have opened wide before him, it is considered likely that commercial airlines will engage his attention, after he has visited the important centers of the nation.

Lindbergh also has said that he wants to return to Europe to visit those places he was unable to see when government authorities urged him to return to America at once, to be greeted and welcomed home.

Chicago, America's second city, has put in an urgent bid for the honor to go there to participate in the military tournament which opens next Saturday.

Major William Hale Thompson has written Lindbergh asking him to visit the industrial capital of the midwest.

NATIONAL AIR DERBY APPROVED BY FLIER

St. Louis, June 20.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today endorsed the proposed national air derby by signing a petition at the National Air Derby Association in Spokane, Wash., September 10 to 21, and said he would consider an invitation to act as official starter of the national air races at Spokane, September 22 and 24.

Major John T. Fancher, managing director of the National Air Derby Association, of Spokane, Wash., said Colonel Lindbergh told him he would "look upon the invitation with a great deal of favor, as it is right in line with the work I am most interested in."

Spokane has put up $50,000 in cash prizes for the derby and other races.

LINDBERGH PERMITTED TO USE NAVAL PLANES

Washington, June 20.—The navy has conferred a novel and practical honor on Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh by permitting him to use naval planes and other naval aviation equipment whenever he wants it.

Commanding officers of naval air units have been ordered to place aviation at Lindbergh's disposal. This is the first time the navy has given such permission to a civilian.

In notifying Lindbergh of this action, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner, in charge of aviation, explained that the navy desired to confer an honor that would be aeronautical in its nature. As Lindbergh is an army reserve officer, he was ineligible for the usual naval service awards.

COL. LINDBERGH PLANNING FUTURE

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—(United News.)—Finished for the moment with popular demonstrations, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has begun to plan his future.

He is looking for a future which will make him wealthy and at the same time further the interests of aviation, the subject dearest to him.

After getting a good sleep—the best rest he has had since he landed in Paris in his monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, Lindbergh conferred with his friend and financial backer, Harry H. Knight and Harold G. Bixby, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Others who acted as advisers were Major William Robertson, chief of the air mail line on which Lindbergh acted as pilot, and B. F. Mahoney, St. Diego.

Definite decision as to Lindbergh's plans were not reached, but it was regarded as certain that he will make St. Louis his home and headquarters, and that after conferring the plans begun today he will start a swing around the country in his monoplane.

He will make the trip in the other hand, the Spirit of St. Louis, in which he winged his way to fame. He plans to accept many invitations which have been extended to him by various cities from New England to the Pacific coast and from the Canadian border to the Rio Grande, but to visit all of them would be impossible, he said.

Lindbergh is expected to leave St. Louis late Wednesday or Thursday. It is believed he will return to Washington to talk to government officials regarding his log of the trans-Atlantic flight.

While offers of sums totaling millions of dollars have been offered Lindbergh and his associates, they have opened wide before him, it is considered likely that commercial airlines will engage his attention, after he has visited the important centers of the nation.

Lindbergh also has said that he wants to return to Europe to visit those places he was unable to see when government authorities urged him to return to America at once, to be greeted and welcomed home.

Chicago, America's second city, has put in an urgent bid for the honor to go there to participate in the military tournament which opens next Saturday.

Major William Hale Thompson has written Lindbergh asking him to visit the industrial capital of the midwest.

Spokane has put up $50,000 in cash prizes for the derby and other races.

Lindbergh permitted to use naval planes.

Washington, June 20.—The navy has conferred a novel and practical honor on Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh by permitting him to use naval planes and other naval aviation equipment whenever he wants it.

Commanding officers of naval air units have been ordered to place aviation at Lindbergh's disposal. This is the first time the navy has given such permission to a civilian.

In notifying Lindbergh of this action, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner, in charge of aviation, explained that the navy desired to confer an honor that would be aeronautical in its nature. As Lindbergh is an army reserve officer, he was ineligible for the usual naval service awards.

MARKET COURSES IN SCHOOLS URGED

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—If cooperative marketing is to become the accepted method of disposing of farm products it must be taught in rural schools—there must be a generation trained in its principles and practices—Secretary of Agriculture William H. Jardine told the American Institute of Cooperation here today.

"With a background of early systematic instruction we can hope that the farmers of the future will accept cooperation, not only as an efficient method of marketing products, but as a type of organization which integrates and harmonizes the whole business of farming," the secretary said.

"It then will be accepted as a way of living," he continued, "which will give rural life the satisfaction and dignity which it should enjoy."

Independence Urged.

Farm cooperative marketing implies control of the organizations by their producer members, Mr. Jardine declared. An organization is not cooperative if controlled by an agency of the government; nor if set up and operated by a semi-philanthropic organization, he asserted.

"The weakness of an organization set up and operated for farmers by others another rural initiative and self-help. Dependence on the government or on other agencies for direction deteriorates the business capacity and morale of the producers."

"This is the insurmountable objection to progress of farm relief which is based on the government development of cooperative marketing. Efficient marketing is as much the farmers' job as efficient production."

"Eliminate Waste."

Cooperative marketing must begin with production, Mr. Jardine declared. It implies economical production; improvement and standardization of varieties of crops and breeds of livestock, and most efficient utilization of land.

"There is every indication that cooperation is taking up the slack of production," he continued. "Worthless varieties of fruit are being eliminated. One type of hog is becoming standard throughout the corn states. The south is moving toward one variety communities in the production of cotton and a new standard for butter has been set by the federated creameries of Minnesota."

Carrollton Revival.

Carrollton, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Rev. Warren G. Cutts, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, is conducting a revival here, assisted by his father, Dr. W. L. Cutts, of Copperhill, Tenn. The services begin Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. W. L. Cutts is delivering the morning messages and the evangelistic meetings at night are being conducted by his son. The music is in charge of Ross Mullins.

PLenty OF RUBBER IN United States Tires starts out in the Far East—on the United States Rubber Company's Plantation. This Company owns 10,000,000 rubber trees—enough to make an unbroken line nearly twice around the earth. Seven million of these trees are producing rubber.

ON the very tip of your tongue is probably a most practical question:

"How do I know you are giving me plenty of rubber in my Royal Cord Balloons?"

It does not all show to the eye. Nor can you tell it by weighing the tires. Pure rubber is light . . . and a tire manufacturer can make a tire weigh almost anything he pleases by "loading" the rubber with heavier substances which add nothing to the wear.

Much of the "Plenty of Rubber" in Royal Cord Balloons is distributed where it does not show but does do its job—the right kind of rubber, in the right places.

Move Is Started To Invite Lindy And Mother Here

Machinery was set in motion in city council Monday to invite Colonel Charles Lindbergh and his mother to Atlanta, when a delegation of women representing several of the city's most influential civic and patriotic organizations took the floor and urged that Atlanta extend an invitation to the American air hero to visit the south's Gate City.

Alderman P. L. Moon and Councilmen Howard C. McCutchen and Frank Calloway offered a joint resolution asking council to issue an official invitation. The paper was referred to the aviation committee of city council, which is headed by Alderman William B. Hartsfield.

In addition to asking that Lindbergh and his mother come to the south's Gate City, the resolution, which was introduced by Alderman William B. Hartsfield, "we," the "Spirit of St. Louis," which Lindbergh made his flight from New York to Paris.

Mayor Ragsdale asked council suspend the regular order of business and hear the delegation of women. This was done.

Mrs. Charles P. Byrd, representing the Joseph Habersham chapter, A. R., acted as spokesman for the women and introduced Mrs. Staffe Seidel, president of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.; Mrs. John Willis Smith, representing the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. R. F. Mettack, first vice president of the C. Federation of clubs; Mrs. George Grant, president of the West End Woman's club; Mrs. D. F. Stephenson, of the Atlanta Woman's club; Mrs. A. L. Smith, president of the Civic club of West End, and Mr. Murray Howard, president of the Needlework guild. All members made appeals in behalf of the proposed invitation.

Mr. Hartsfield and his committee will take the matter under advisement and arrange to extend the invitation at the earliest possible date, it was announced Monday night.

GEN. ANSELL OBTAINS LEGION POST SUPPORT

General Samuel T. Ansell, former judge advocate general of the United States army, was the principal speaker at the final pre-convention session of the American Legion executive committee here Monday, securing the Atlanta post's sponsorship for a movement to put naval officers who work up from the ranks on the same pay basis as Annapolis graduates of similar rank.

The committee instructed the local delegation to the state department convention at Savannah, this week to secure the state's support for the measure and also to launch a fight for extension of time for awarding medals of honor on citations for bravery made during the world war. Ansell bitrary limits placed on consideration of citations prevented several members of the Atlanta post from receiving merited recognition, it was stated.

Both measures will require congressional action, which the Atlanta delegation will ask the state convention to initiate.

Members of the Atlanta delegation, which leaves Tuesday, will include Asa Warren Candler, J. G. C. Bloodworth, Colonel D'Arcy Peare, James Morrison, Charles DuPre, Herbert Kaiser, A. H. Duggan, W. E. Joyner, T. A. Sullivan, W. P. Stovall, Evan Howell, Clark Howell, Jr., B. P. Gambrell, Harry Wallerstein, Frank Kempson, S. N. Goodman, Basil Stockbridge, W. E. Post, Dan T. Baker, Frank Hays, J. C. GEORGIA SCHOOLS WIN SUPREME COURT CASE

By a decision of the supreme court of Georgia Monday, in which the court ruled that the state constitution does not limit a school district to an aggregate tax of 5 mills, including county, local and bond taxes, a victory was gained for the common schools of the state.

This announcement was made by the state department of education which claimed that the decision opened the way for advancement of the common school program. The case decided was that of the local school trustees of Terrell county against the board of commissioners requiring the county commissioners to levy a special tax of 5 mills for their district, which was granted by Judge M. J. Yeoman.

The commissioners then appealed the case on the grounds that the new Brownwood district in question was already taxed 5 mills for county education and 2-1/2 mills to retire the school building bond issue. They claimed that the additional tax asked would run the total beyond the limits prescribed by the state constitution. However, the supreme court in its ruling Monday held that there can be a countywide tax of 5 mills for distribution among all the schools, and a local tax of 5 mills, making 10 mills all together, and that a bond issue is a separate and additional tax that the people may vote on themselves.

Although the general principle of school taxation was upheld in the case, the decision of Judge Yeoman was reversed on the ground that the call for the special election in the new Brownwood district failed to set forth the amount of the tax being voted on, and therefore was void.

Wild Rodeo 'Bull' Bites Dust Under Cop's Trusty Gun

The Wild Bull of Egan Park was "knocked for a row" Monday.

Since a rodeo show played at Lake-wood park here some three weeks ago, residents of Egan Park have regularly phoned county police to complain that an animal, described as "either a bull or a steer" had been seen running foot-loose in the vicinity.

Responding, police found nothing more substantial than tracks. Monday, a Clayton officer gasped; then became active. In a flourishing cabbage garden he glimpsed the mythical bull in the act of decreasing the supply of corned beef's garnishment. Striking the beast, he found that it wasn't mythical after all and when it squared off to do battle in best rodeo manner, the Clayton officer sent it cowering in the cabbage with a Nick Carter shot, as per instructions in the police manual.

Egan Parkers slept well Monday night.

DR. DODGE RETURNS TO CHURCH PULPIT

Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, announced Monday, following a recent illness, that he will be able to continue his duties in connection with that church. The minister, who collapsed in the pulpit early in the month, took his place in the services Sunday with a special program for young people and suffered no ill effects, according to his physicians. Following a recent resolution by the executive board, the pastor and officers of the church are to exert every effort toward the improvement of a full church program during the summer months, and it is in recognition of these additional demands that Dr. Dodge, under the direction of family physician, returns to the active pastorate.

M. B. FALL FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for M. B. Fall, 71, for many years a prominent official of the Coca-Cola company, who was found dead in his room at a downtown hotel Monday morning, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the chapel of H. M. Terson & Son, The Rev. L. R. Christie, the pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, will officiate. The body will be taken at 1 o'clock to LaGrange, Ga., his former home, for interment.

At an inquest held Monday afternoon at the undertaking establishment of H. M. Terson and son a coroner's verdict was "death caused from a sudden heart attack."

For more than a quarter of a century, Mr. Fall had been head of the order department of the Coca-Cola company and at the beginning of the present year he resigned to spend a few years in travel.

Mr. Fall was a member of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church and for many years he was church clerk. His wife died several years ago and he had made his home at a local hotel since that time.

He is survived by a niece, Mrs. S. H. Chapman, of Senoia, Ga., and by a distant relative who are Peyser, David, C. M. Fall, of Senoia, and Logan Bleckley, clerk of the state court of appeals.

PERENNIAL BRUNSWICK FISHING ROW RENEWED

Brunswick, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—In an effort to ascertain the real facts in the old fight between native and alien fishermen, which breaks out anew every time the Georgia legislature convenes, the Young Men's club has taken up the subject, not as an advocate of one side or the other, but to make a thorough investigation into the pravity industry, to secure facts and figures showing just what the industry means to Brunswick, and then to decide, if possible, whether alien and non-resident fishermen should be prohibited from fishing in Georgia waters, as is planned in a bill to be introduced at the session of the legislature which convenes Wednesday.

The fight between native and Portuguese fishermen is of long standing, the natives, backed by the local organization of packers, claiming that the Portuguese are ruining the industry along the Georgia coast; that if they are permitted to continue their activities along the Georgia coast it will only be a few years before prawn fishing in Georgia will be extinct. The natives claim that the Portuguese do not observe the law, that they catch prawn from morning to night, daily and Sunday and that, as a result, the industry is now suffering.

On the other hand the Portuguese, who have many prominent citizens on their side of the argument, point out that they are law-abiding. They have produced records to show that 95 per cent of the court cases for violation of the law have been against native fishermen.

Local business men who are supporting the Portuguese in their contentions point to the fact that the industry is a big one to Brunswick, that in figures it means easily $500,000 to Brunswick annually, every cent of which is spent in the city, and that to drive these fishermen out of the state would mean the losing of this big sum, as they claim that it would not mean the catching of more prawn by native fishermen, most of whom deliver their daily catch to local factories.

RADIO RECEIVING DECLARED BETTER UNDER NEW RULES

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Radio reception throughout the country has been greatly improved since the federal radio commission took charge of the ether, said O. H. Caldwell, a member of the commission, before leaving for Washington today.

Mr. Caldwell will sit as a member of the commission during several weeks of hearings in Washington to permit station operators to voice their grievances.

When the 60-day licenses issued June 15, under which stations are now operating, expire, additional 60-day licenses will be issued until more definite arrangements can be made, he explained.

Regarding injunction suits brought to restrain the commission from enforcing its regulations, Mr. Caldwell said he was confident the law creating the commission and defining its power would be upheld.

Dusky Motorcyclists End Speed Trials In Grady Hospital

Suffering their rapidly traveling motorcycle to avoid colliding with an automobile, James Stroud, 18-year-old negro of 658 Reed street, the driver, and Willie Morris, 18, colored, of 641 Ira street, occupant of the rear seat, plunged over a curb at Glenn and Smith streets Monday afternoon, crashed through a fence and terminated their ride at Grady hospital.

Although seriously injured, neither was in danger of death, hospital attendants reported to Police Lieutenant L. J. Carroll, who investigated.

Stroud was "pushing" his machine at a fast pace on Glenn street when the automobile turned onto that thoroughfare from Smith street, the officer reported. Stroud turned sharply to the left, skidded across the pavement and negotiated his abrupt halt.

MINISTER OF GOSPEL FORMERLY A DOCTOR PRAISES MINERAL-TONE

Has Known Medicinal Value of Remarkable Mineral for Forty Years, Says Doctor Who Heeded Call to Preach the Word.

Again there comes from high authority praise for Mineral-Tone and its power to relieve the ills of mankind, as the Reverend G. L. Chastain, Pastor of the St. John M. E. Church, of LaGrange, Georgia, writes to tell of his experience through forty years with the God-given remedy. Dr. Chastain is doubly a Doctor, having been a healer of the body before he became healer of souls. As a young man he was practicing medicine in the section where Nature has placed the only known deposit of Mineral-Tone. During his medical practice there he encountered the amazing natural mineral, and he has since then used it to the seat of the most stubborn ailments and removes them.

He holds out tremendous new hope to all those who have sought in vain for years, and have found man-made remedies unavailing. For Mineral-Tone, as Doctor Chastain points out, is a natural remedy. Its health-giving minerals fused together by a Divine Providence, in the heart of Turkey Mountain.

Watch These Danger Signals!

Do you need Mineral-Tone? Ask yourself these questions. It may be the means of saving you from many years of agony and torture. Have you rheumatism, stomach trouble, excess, boils or any one of the many ailments arising from weak, run-down and impure blood? If you have, Mineral-Tone can help you on the way to health again by purifying your blood, building up the red corpuscles, setting free your blood-stream, making it strong and able to throw off the poisons that are dragging you down, weakening you to the attacks of disease germs that course through your system.

Do you feel dull and depressed at times? Do you have headaches, backaches? Is your skin blotchy or broken out? Do you get up in the morning still tired and weary? Do you sleep badly, tossing and turning? Does food disagree with you, causing gas and heartburn? Are you bothered with rheumatic twinges at times? Are you losing weight, despite everything you can do? Watch these symptoms. They warn you of impending disease and unhappiness. Check them before they go further. Take Mineral-Tone to build up your strength, to guard you against the encroachments of terrible ailments. Take Mineral-Tone to get well, and keep well and happy, as many have done here.

Take a package according to directions. If it does not relieve you promptly, come back and get your money. What could be fairer than that? Ask your suffering neighbor who has tried Mineral-Tone. They know! Many of them have written to tell how they were helped, as you will write when Mineral-Tone has helped you, too.

LaGrange, Ga., June 2nd, 1927.
"Mineral-Tone, Inc.,

"As an old resident of Gordon County, I want to tell you of my knowledge and experience with Mineral-Tone. I have known of this remarkable mineral for possibly forty years. It first came to my attention when as a young man I was practicing medicine in the vicinity of Turkey Mountain, where this deposit of mineral is located.

"This mineral has great medicinal value, as a blood tonic it is useful for many ills. It has been used by the people of that section for many years with great benefit as a general system builder. My brother, who was a druggist at Calhoun, sold it in his store for many years. As a young man I was a practicing physician in that section, and only stopped practicing medicine because I felt the urge and call to preach the gospel and spread the Word of God broadcast, which I have done for the past 24 years.

"I am not much of a believer in the general run of patent medicines, there are so many manufactured and so few of merit. I believe in Mineral-Tone because it is a product of nature, its medicinal value and the medicines in mineral form are fixed together by Nature. It is natural, and God, the Creator of all things, is also the Creator of Nature. I am glad to tell you what I know about Mineral-Tone, and believe those who take it will be benefited.

(Signed) "REV. G. L. CHASTAIN,

OUR CAPITAL PERISCOPE

Sam W. Small

From The Constitution Bureau.

Washington, June 20.—The speech made by Senator Jim Reed to the Tennessee Bar association on Saturday, June 18, was a political comment on the capital. While not accepted as an entry by the senator into the competition for the democratic presidential nomination, it is taken as "hinting that way." It is known that strong friends of Senator Reed are at work in many states making sentiment for setting him forward as the most available and acceptable man to compose the threatened renewal of the McAdoo-Smith feud. It is argued that the less radical adherents of those gentlemen are coming to realize that the nomination of either would cause defeating dissensions in the party, while Senator Reed could reasonably rally, if any man can, the almost solid alignment of the democrats of the nation.

Senator Reed waives all talk about the nomination. He has set his soul on tearing open the record of Coolidge and his party during the coming session of congress. He is hot-headed to chase corruption out of the government. If his work accepted as an entry by the senator into the competition for the democratic presidential nomination, it is taken as "hinting that way." It is known that strong friends of Senator Reed are at work in many states making sentiment for setting him forward as the most available and acceptable man to compose the threatened renewal of the McAdoo-Smith feud. It is argued that the less radical adherents of those gentlemen are coming to realize that the nomination of either would cause defeating dissensions in the party, while Senator Reed could reasonably rally, if any man can, the almost solid alignment of the democrats of the nation.

Attracts Attention.

Since the war he has attracted wide spread attention as a test pilot particularly for his ability to handle delicate and untried machines. He flew the Cierva autogyro windmill plane, once deliberately risking his neck to prove that the vanes on one machine were structurally weak. "They will come off," he told his associates. They scoffed at the idea. "I'll show you," he said. Hopping into the machine he took it off, and was maneuvering it, when the horrified spectators saw it crash. The ambulance streaked to the spot where it landed. But of the wreckage came Courtney, unscathed. "There," he said triumphantly, "I told you those vanes would come off."

Captain Courtney is 33 years old and a native of England. He is now in the United States Army, where he is equipped to regain a measure of Britain's lost air prestige by accomplishing what Lindbergh and Champlin have done. He is a more difficult wicker course and back.

STORM AND FOG HOLD 'AMERICA' ANCHORED.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, June 20.—Storms and fog in mid-Atlantic tonight continued to threaten to hold the giant triple-engine monoplane, "America," to earth for at least another 24 hours before the take-off for Paris. The weather bureau announced that the storm center was moving outward and northward off the Virginia capes towards the route to be taken by Commander Richard E. Byrd and his associates in the "America." Commander Byrd took advantage of the further delay by going to the Statesboro hotel Monday night and disposed of routine matters necessary to be handled prior to the convention.

During their visit to Atlanta and convention committee held a business session at the Biltmore hotel Monday night and disposed of routine matters necessary to be handled prior to the convention.

Members of the association will be given many courtesies by various interests in Atlanta. The Howard theater and Keith's Georgia theater, through an arrangement made by The Constitution, The Journal and The Georgian, Atlanta newspapers, provided free tickets to these theaters for all convention visitors. It was announced by John T. Toler, chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Toler also announced that the Atlanta Southern baseball team, had provided tickets to the ball games for the visitors. Many of the circulation men who were here Monday were guests of Mr. Spiller at the Atlanta-Memphis game Monday afternoon.

Business sessions of the association will be held Tuesday morning and will last through Thursday. While business sessions are not in progress some phase of entertainment will be provided for the visitors and their families.

Some of the foremost authorities in the country on the various topics to be discussed will appear at the program of the convention. The methods used in handling extras, the relation of various contests of all kinds to circulation, the question of delivery and accounting and other topics will be discussed.

The visitors will be welcomed Tuesday by Mayor E. N. Ragsdale, an opening prayer delivered by Dean Thomas H. Johnston, of St. Philip's cathedral. President Payne will deliver his annual address. Another prominent speaker will be Karl F. Hall, of the Toledo Blade.

Among the entertainment features planned for the visitors will be a motor bus ride to Stone Mountain via a barbeque at the mountain. A dinner-dance will be given at the Biltmore hotel Tuesday night. Wednesday night the annual banquet will be held at the Biltmore hotel to be followed by dancing.

The local entertainment committee, headed by Mr. Toler, will have charge of all entertainment programs. A committee of women from the three Atlanta newspapers will provide an entertainment for the visiting women. Included in this program will be automobile drives to points of interest and an afternoon tea Wednesday at the Atlanta Women's club.

In addition to President Payne, officers of the association who are here are Harold Hough, of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; first vice president, J. M. Auerberg, Philadelphia Public Ledger; second vice president, Charles Ryster, Peoria Evening Star; secretary and treasurer, and the following directors, Thomas J. Dowling, Cleveland Press; John Toler, Atlanta Constitution; Wiley B. Baker, Knoxville Sentinel; J. N. Eisenberg, Chicago Daily News; James Matthews, St. Paul Pioneer-Press; Will A. Butler, Denver News and Times; Royal Weller, Allentown Morning all; Walter Snyder, Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegram; and H. W. Stodgill, Louisville Courier-Journal-Times.

peers to remain in New York three or four days only, no longer than the commercial trans-Atlantic air lines of the future, then return to Newfoundland and back to Southampton without further stop.

The commander of the British trans-Atlantic flight is one of the most commanding figures in the air world. He learned to fly before the world war. He is credited with having more flying hours than any contemporary English aviator. Sir Sefton Branker, air minister, has named him as second only to Sir Alan Cobham, the British ace. During the war he served with distinction, establishing a reputation for daring and high achievement. Once when determined to get published the fact that a certain type of plane being sent to the British war pilots was killing more men than the Germans, he tried fruitlessly to get himself court-martialed.

Councilman A. J. Orme, chairman of the finance committee of city council, led the fight against retention of the clause, pointing that it is unfair to other very necessary needs of the city government to allocate a certain specific amount to any one division.

All departments should place their budgets in the same jing and the city's revenue should be apportioned equitably with due consideration to all divisions," Mr. Orme contended. "This provision is unfair."

Councilman Jack C. Savage, of the ninth, succeeded in retaining the present clause in the city charter which provides for election of members of the board of education by vote of the citizens of the respective wards the members represent. Vote on Mr. Savage's proposal was unanimous, and will have the effect, if approved by Mayor I. N. Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

The pointer for today is:

THREE ACES ARE SUFFICIENT FOR A NO TRUMP BID BY DEALER OR SECOND HAND; BUT NOT FOR THIRD OR FOURTH HAND.

Yesterday's Hand.

♠ A-7-4
♥ A-4-2
♦ A-3-3
♣ A-4-5-2

My answer slip reads:

No. 1. South (Dealer) should bid one No Trump.

No. 2. South one No Trump; West should pass.

No. 3. South pass, West pass; North should pass.

No. 4. South one No Trump, West double, North pass; East should pass (Business Pass) or bid two No Trumps.

My reasons in support of these declarations are:

No. 1. A three-ace hand justifies a bid of one No Trump by Dealer. When the dealer has three aces, it is a question of time, but now there are no experts who demur, and there are many who will bid a No Trump even with two aces and one king. The three-ace hand, however, is weak enough for the average player.

No. 2. Three aces is not sufficient strength for an informative double as a general rule that declaration should not be made without five high

Jack Lance, under sentence of death for complicity in the murder, were introduced by the state at the initial hearing on requisition papers held in Arkansas several months ago. Lovett, according to these affidavits, left the boarding house on the night of the murder and has not returned. A shotgun was also seen in the closet of the room rented by the alleged "murder scheme," the affidavits set out.

Testimony Cited.

During the trial of Jack Lance in Fulton county superior court, Mrs. Lulu Morris, a star witness for the state, testified that Lovett came to the Lance home with Jack Lance and Neil Oberlin on the morning of July 20, before the inert body of the investigator was found sprawled stiff on the floor in the hotel. They brought a "sawed-off" shotgun and money in a "container" to the home in addition to a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes which were stained with blood.

Mrs. Morris testified.

After boasting that they had "bumped off" the nemesis of the underworld, Mrs. Morris said, they tore the suit of clothes up in strips and burned it.

Mrs. W. B. Mathers, guest at the hotel at the time of the murder, testified at the Lance trial that Lovett was the man whom she saw on the third floor of the hotel just prior to the murder. She identified him as the man who had occupied "room 313" in the Georgian Terrace hotel which was located near the room in which Donaldson met his death.

In addition to Assistant Solicitor Stephens, the state was represented by Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress, Special Investigator W. A. "Dolph" Riley accompanied Solicitor Stephens to Little Rock, where the hearing was held.

Lovett was indicted on the charge of murder with seven other alleged members of Atlanta's gambling and liquor syndicates shortly after being implicated in a plot to slay Donaldson in a confession last February by Charles H. Fitchett, former Atlanta policeman, now in jail in Chattanooga, Tenn., on a charge of passing a worthless check.

Governor Martineau adjourned the initial hearing after hearing affidavits read by the state counsel and also Lovett's attorneys, stating that he would give additional time for the presentation of evidence as the testimony presented was extremely contradictory in regard to Lovett's whereabouts at the time of the murder.

Another date was set but, due to flood conditions in Arkansas and the fact that Lovett's counsel was said to be marooned in the flooded district, the hearing was postponed until a later date. Another postponement became necessary when Governor Martineau wired the solicitor that he had a conference with the president on the date set for the hearing and that he would be unable to hold the hearings at that time.

Solicitor Stephens, Attorney Gress and Investigator Riley left Atlanta Saturday. The hearing consumed practically the entire day Monday.

JAVANESE PRINCE HAS 6 CHILDREN WED TOGETHER

Surakarta, Java, June 20.—(AP)—Five princesses and one prince—all children of the Susuhunan of Surakarta, an immensely wealthy Javanese prince of ancient lineage, were married today at a joint ceremony with Mohammedan rites before an intimate court circle.

The princesses were wedded to members of the Susuhunan's household and the prince married the daughter of a neighboring potentate.

Scenes of original splendor marked the ceremonies. The famous Javanese wedding dances in colorful costumes, glittering with jewels, to the music of wood native instruments, exceeded anything hitherto seen in the island of Java.

Literati of World Pause To Honor de Machiavelli

ACE OF POLITICIANS DIED 400 YEARS AGO

BY KEITH JONES.

London, June 20.—(United News.) Intellectuals throughout the world noted Monday the 400th anniversary of the death of Niccolò de Machiavelli, Florentine diplomat and statesman who contributed through his knowledge of political trickery the dictionary word Machiavelian, so useful in description of modern politics.

When Machiavelli died in Florence, Italy, the world had never heard of such modern institutions as the League of Nations, bolshevism or other terms associated with modern politics. But the world learned the ins and outs of political cunning from the Italian statesman. And many of those who observed the date of Machiavelli's death gave a thought to international intrigue going on in the world today, for they regarded the Italian leader as the creator of political science.

In addition to providing the world with new tricks of politics Machiavelli gave his comedy "La Mandragola," which in the ancient fifteenth century offered the people of those days a shocking bit of literature which would be unsafe in the hands of the modern censor either in the United States or Great Britain.

Giant Dirigible May Try Flight To Hawaii Isles

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, June 20.—Tentative plans for flying the dirigible Los Angeles to Hawaii following the completion of repairs now being made on the big commercial airship at Lakehurst are under consideration by navy officials.

No authorization of a flight of the distance which would be required, if the ship was flown direct from Lakehurst to Honolulu, has been given, but it was said today that such a flight is contemplated if preliminary tests are satisfactory. The distance from Lakehurst is 5,400 miles and if a direct flight was successfully made to the navy's mooring mast at Pearl Harbor, the world's records for lighter-than-air craft would be broken. On its trip from Germany to the United States, the Los Angeles traveled 5,081 miles.

The Los Angeles is now being deflated at Lakehurst so that new gas cells can be installed and the helium purified. It is expected that the repairs and other necessary work on the ship can be completed within a month. It is not likely, however, that a long flight would be undertaken at once.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur said today that the navy contemplates sending the ship on a number of long cruises in order to thoroughly test its practicability. Should the Honolulu flight be attempted, it is probable that the ship would be taken first to Fort Worth, then to San Diego and from there across the Pacific.

When the Los Angeles came to the United States, the plan was to turn the big ship over to a private company after a time and have it thoroughly tested out for commercial use. Two years ago a company was formed to take over the ship, but, according to naval officials, interest in the venture faded out following the disaster to the naval dirigible Shenandoah. Since that time no other government department or private commercial company has sought the use of the ship.

King Ben Sends Man Into Exile, And Courts Wife

St. Joseph, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—When Benjamin Funnell, head of the House of David, began paying Mrs. Edith Clark Swartz attention, he banished her husband to High Island, the colony exile. Mrs. Swartz testified today at the receivership proceedings against the cult here.

Mrs. Swartz said attempts to communicate with her husband were without result. Letters she gave to colony officers to forward to the exiled husband never arrived, the witness said. After her husband had been in exile for two years she became a member of Funnell's alleged "inner circle" of girls and when Swartz returned and learned of it, he separated from her, Mrs. Swartz said.

Mrs. Swartz came from Australia with a group of converts in 1905. She said she did not believe in the teachings of the faith, but joined at the insistence of her husband and because of reluctance at having her family broken up. The Swartzes had four children.

All of their money and valuables were taken from them, the witness testified, and they were given no money during six years of their stay at the colony. Her parting warning to Funnell, Mrs. Swartz testified, was that she would "remain in Ben's hands" and she still lives there.

HOUSE OF LORDS REFORMS URGED

London, June 20.—(AP)—Sweeping changes in the constitution of the house of lords tending to rouse the upper chamber of the British parliament from the political lethargy from which it has suffered ever since its powers were curtailed 16 years ago, were outlined by Lord Chancellor Cave, speaking in behalf of the government this afternoon.

Among the proposals as outlined by the lord chancellor is the granting of authorization to the sovereign to nominate a limited number of members for periods of 12 years, thus providing for representation of laborites and other parties in the upper house.

The government also proposes to reduce the number of members by election from their ranks of hereditary peers of a fixed number to sit for 12-year periods, one-third retiring every fourth year and being eligible for reelection. The peers to sit in the house would be selected by the fellow hereditary peers. Those not elected to the house of lords would be eligible to election in the house of commons. The hereditary principle of the upper house, however, would be preserved.

No indication was given when the government will produce its bill. The program between now and the next general election, which must be held by November, 1928, is very full, but there is a substantial body of conservative opinion in favor of pressing through the long awaited reforms before that date.

"Gorilla Man" Trial Delayed Until October

Winnipeg, Man., June 20.—(United News.)—Public sentiment, aroused by the strangling of two Winnipeg women ten days ago, will be allowed to cool off before Virgil Wilson, the suspected "Gorilla Man" is brought to trial. In all probability the man who has been hunted in two countries for more than a year will not appear before the bar of Canadian justice until early in October.

"No attempt will be made to hurry the trial, for we want to eliminate the public hysteria which has been prevalent the last ten days," announced W. J. Major, attorney general and chief law enforcement officer of the province. "The accused will be given the same chance for a fair trial as any other prisoner, and no unprejudiced jury could be chosen at the present time."

Wilson is due to appear for a preliminary hearing Thursday, and a week probably will be necessary to hear all the evidence. As the Canadian criminal law does not permit a prisoner charged with murder to enter a plea of guilty, Wilson will be sent up for a jury trial.

ATLANTAN NAMED BISHOP BY POPE

Rev. Father Emmet M. Walsh, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church of Atlanta, was appointed bishop of Charleston, S. C., by Pope Pius at Monday's consistory, according to Associated Press dispatches received here Monday afternoon from Rome, Italy.

When interviewed at the rectory, Father Walsh had received no official communication of the Vatican appointment. News of the promotion was received with general acclaim by the Atlanta friends of Father Walsh, but their joy was mingled with a note of sorrow at having to part with the eminent spiritual leader who came to this city 11 years ago, immediately following ordination.

The appointment will place Father Walsh foremost in the Catholic church in South Carolina, his native state. He is 35 years of age and was a native of Beaufort, S. C. After receiv'g his early grammar school training in Beaufort he moved with his family to Savannah in 1906. There he entered the Savannah High school, being graduated in 1910.

In pursuance of his theological studies he matriculated at St. Bernard's seminary, at Rochester, N. Y. Returning some years later to Savannah, he was ordained in the cathedral of St. John the Baptist by the late Bishop Benjamin Kelley, predecessor to the Right Rev. Michael J. Keyes, bishop of Savannah, in whose diocese Father Walsh is at present. This was on January 15, 1916, at which date Father Walsh became assistant to Father Robert Kennedy, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church here at that time.

Following his initial appointment he was sent to Albany as pastor of St. Therese church in January, 1917. On January 15, 1921, he was transferred to Savannah, where he served as pastor of St. Patrick's church for more than a year. Early in 1923 he was returned to Atlanta as administrator at the Immaculate Conception church and on July 1 that same year was made pastor of the prominent congregation of that church, embracing more than 1,500 persons.

Father Walsh is an unusually young man for the high recognition conferred by Pope Pius, but, as a man of splendid traits and fine executive ability, the choice is a popular one. From the time of his first official residence here, his personality and wholesome intelligence won him a host of friends. His popularity continued to mount until his appointment as pastor of the Immaculate Conception church found him one of Atlanta's foremost divines.

Father Walsh refused to comment on his plans for the future other than to state they had taken no definite shape since the only information concerning the pontifical action that had reached him came from unofficial sources. No arrangements have been made for his successor at the local church, Father Walsh stated, adding that the date when he would assume his new duties in Charleston was unknown to him.

DISBARMENT CASE TO FOLLOW TRIAL

With the conclusion shortly after noon today of the trial in a suit brought by Mrs. Troy Harris seeking $80,000 damages from the Georgia Power company, Solicitor General John A. Boykin Monday said that he would begin an investigation into the charges against Edwin R. Hill, of Decatur, an attorney, that he attempted to buy testimony in the case.

This will be the solicitor's first step preparatory to instituting disbarment proceedings against the attorney as directed by Judge E. D. Thomas following a conference with other Fulton superior court jurists.

Hill is alleged to have offered County Policeman E. D. West $200 to testify for the plaintiff in the damage suit trial. The officer who resumed the stand Monday in the case reiterated his testimony of Friday, declaring that he was assigned by County Police Chief George Mathieson to investigate alleged offers made by Attorney Hill for testimony for the plaintiff.

The witness told the court that he was taken to Hill's office by Dewey C. Rogers, of 357 South Pryor street, and introduced to Hill and it was there that the lawyer offered him $200 to testify for the plaintiff at the trial, giving him a typewritten statement to be memorized for testimony, he said. Leroy Wynn, of Georgia Power company reported the alleged attempts to obtain testimony and offers made by Hill to county police with the result that Chief Mathieson instituted the investigation.

Arguments in the case are slated to be concluded shortly before the case goes to the jury before noon. The action of the solicitor will follow.

CATFISH POSSUM?

Officer Schillings Swears to Resuscitation Act.

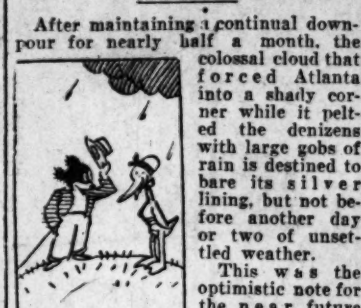

Do catfish play "possum"? Motorcycle Officer C. J. Schillings, of 433 Cooper street, S. E., says so. Schillings Monday "caught himself" a mess of fish. While preparing it for a one-way visit to the kitchen, one of the catfish reared up and took a poke with a horn at the officer's right hand.

At Grady hospital attendants Monday said the resultant blood poisoning was not serious.

225 SOIL EXPERTS WILL VISIT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., June 20.—(AP)—Two hundred and twenty-five leading soil scientists and chemists will visit the state college of agriculture here and this section of the Piedmont next Saturday. Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the college, announced today.

CLOUDY WEATHER PROMISED TODAY; SUNSHINE COMING

After maintaining a continual down-pour for nearly a month, the colossal cloud that forced Atlanta into a shabby corner while it pelled the denizens with large gobs of rain is destined to bare its silver lining, but not before another day or two of unsettled weather.

This was the optimistic note for the near future sounded by C. P. von Herrmann, government meteorologist of the local weather station, in offering today's forecast of uncertain weather with probable rains in the afternoon and rising temperatures.

By Wednesday or Thursday residents of Atlanta and surrounding territories will have paid their respects to the moisture-cloth skies and the marred heavens will again adorn the landscape, the weatherman promised. Disappointed persons who have been planning automobile trips only to postpone them because of inclement atmospheric conditions are advised by the official forecasters to revive their plans and nomadic desires.

In spite of popular complaint, Mr. von Herrmann refused to see anything abnormal in the rainy weather at this time of the year and called attention to the records that showed the total precipitation to date scarcely above the normal June rainfall. Nevertheless, meteorological indications are favorable for a period of pleasant weather within the next few days, he said.

Moderate temperatures will continue to prevail today, according to the prediction, which gave the probable range as 66 to 81 degrees. This is a slight rise above Monday temperature extremes, which were recorded at 65 and 81 degrees.

WEEK-END BURGLARS GET $2,500 JEWELRY

Busy burglars over the week-end made off with jewelry valued at $2,500, three pistols, a kodak, clothing, and two razors, police reports reveal. Mrs. A. H. Latham, 100 Westminister drive, was the heaviest contributor, her loss of miscellaneous jewelry totalling well over $2,000 when burglars jimmied a rear window of her home some time before dawn and ran places. The marauders escaped with a clock dresser drawers and hiding out disturbing anyone, police were told.

Listed in the loot was a diamond pin valued at $1,000; a bar pin set with diamonds and two sapphires; a diamond shaped brooch set with a sapphire in the center; a bar pin with square cut sapphire, and a small brooch set with four sapphires. Not content with jewelry, the visitors carried off a kodak and an automatic pistol.

Call Officers Matlock and Hughes investigated, later being assisted by Detectives Campbell and Evans. Scrutiny disclosed several well-defined fingerprints about the house, and these will be photographed today by Captain M. J. Wright, of the identification bureau.

Breaking into the home of Mrs. Thomas Denmark, 327 South Pryor street, early Sunday, thieves took two strings of pearls, a pistol, razor and a quantity of clothing, police records show.

A platinum pin set with three diamonds, a gold watch and pistol was taken from the F. A. Collier home, at 386 North Jackson street, by stealthy burglars who gave no notice of their presence, authorities were told.

R. Bizinsky, 141 Woodward avenue, contributed $5 in cash and a razor to the week-end depredations. Another loser was Mrs. Mary Webb, 139 Waltham street, who reported the theft of two gold rings, one set with a diamond.

ELKS ASKED TO HELP HOME AT GRACEWOOD

Deploing the fact that the Georgia state home for feeble-minded children at Gracewood, Ga., accommodates only 85 inmates while thousands are said to be neglected, the Georgia Elks' association, through its president, E. Foster Brigham, of Augusta, has issued a state-wide appeal to its members to raise $300,000 in 1928 for the purpose of alleviating this untoward situation.

This became known Monday when letters embracing the appeal were received by Elks of Atlanta from B. C. Royles, secretary of the state association, in which details of the campaign were outlined and statistics of the true condition at the Gracewood institution revealed.

Determination to sponsor this move was first made when the executive committee of the Elks' association met in Atlanta on February 26, 1927. This action was then approved unanimously at the convention in Daytona Beach, Fla., on April 25, last.

That no one will entertain doubts as to the value of the work which the Elks are undertaking, the letter reveals comparative statistics gleaned from Georgia and other states, in which it is stated that Georgia draws up in the rear. Condensed this table shows the number of children being cared for by the various states as follows:

Georgia, 85; Indiana, 1,525; Wisconsin, 1,530; Michigan, 2,465; Minnesota, 1,950; Iowa, 1,900; Kansas, 800; New Jersey, 2,050; Virginia, 790; North Carolina, 400; California, 2,000.

MAJOR CARSON TO TAKE MARINE POST AT CAPITAL

Major D. B. Carson, former United States commissioner of navigation and a foremost railroad executive of the south was preparing Monday to leave for Washington, D. C., to take over the office of assistant secretary of commerce in charge of marine, under Secretary Herbert Hoover.

Major Carson, for 35 years identified with navigation in the south, was appointed recently by Secretary Hoover, the announcement being made officially Monday when it was also made public that Major Carson had resigned his post as commissioner of navigation. He held the commissioner's office for the past ten years.

Stamps and Salams By Louise Dooly

PEOPLE who are skeptical about the twentieth century practicality of the stamp are to be taught a lesson and had a spat about it.

THE immediate urge to resume my occasional research (from the coldly analytical outside) into the problems and tribulations and blessings of the married state was stimulated by the news that one of the most famous of the professional Journalists' Advisors to the Matrimonially Perturbed, or those who are contemplating the plunge, has been awarded a university degree. I don't know whether it was conferred on account of the character of her advice or of the literature in which this advice was embodied.

Until I find out, I shall go on thinking that perhaps my turkey dinner presented may some day form the basis for my own thesis looking to a doctorate.

Why not? One of the most frivolous (apparently) and most unmarried men I know was the man selected by one of the richest and most celebrated foundations for social research in America to gather the material—and his book embodying the results is ready, I believe, for the press on marriage relations in the United States, his findings to form the basis for the study by the foundation and sociologists everywhere of methods, social and economic, for ameliorating the condition of the married state. (Possibly the foundation does not express itself in just these words, but that's the sense of it.)

AND here's another abstract, not to say abstract problem offering itself for scientific hot weather consideration:

In a history of aprons I was scanning recently, their varying symbolism was noted down the ages, all the way from religion through adornment to trade, but it occurred to me that their present symbolism (when a woman's garment), which was left out of the article, is significant enough to have warranted some consideration.

True, this present symbolism is purely negative. Women don't wear aprons any longer. But that very circumstance is symbolic.

In most of its manifestations—certainly in those of fairly modern times—the apron was primarily for use, even though, like buttons, it was

Miss Broughton And Mr. Peace To Wed Thursday Evening

The wedding plans of Miss Elizabeth Broughton and Charles D. Peace are of social interest throughout the state, which will be solemnized Thursday evening, June 23, at the Second Baptist church, at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. T. G. Seidel, organist, and Mrs. William B. Griffith, harpist, will furnish the pre-nuptial music.

Mrs. Dreery E. Beaton will act as matron of honor and Miss Harriett Gilmer will be the maid of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Sarah Peace, of Douglasville, Ga., sister of the groom; Mrs. R. P. Ashurst, Mrs. R. W. Stephens and Mrs. Douglas Symmers.

Little Richard Harvey will be the ring-bearer. The groom will have as his best man Earl Broughton, brother of the bride.

The groomsmen will include Dreury E. Beaton, R. F. Ashurst, R. W. Stephens and Douglas Symmers.

Among the many pre-nuptial affairs given in Russell, Preston, Ackworth, Belle Robinson Reed, Martellus Butler, John Robinson, Sims Gray, Blair Armstrong, Belling Jones, Eugene Allen, Carter Woodford, Ott Alston, J. K. Orr, Jr., Langdon Quinn, Edwin Murray, Luther Z. Rosser, Klatt Armstrong, Fred Shaefer, Eugene W. Haynes, Y. Frank Freeman, William N. Niles, Albert Pritchard, Mildred Debs Howard, Edwin P. Ansley, Jr., Homer Thompson, Eugene Allen, William Huger, James D. Robinson, Ernest Woodruff, George Calhoun Walters, Elizabeth Bates, Miss Catherine Boyd, of Chicago; Virginia Campbell, Louise Nelson and Sarah Hunt.

The house was decorated with summer flowers, attractively arranged in vases and bowls. The color scheme of yellow and white was effectively carried out in the minis and leas.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harvey were assisted in entertaining by Miss Harriett Gilmer, Lewis Ray, president of the class, and Kenneth Cooper.

Invited to meet the honor guests were Misses Sarah Peace, Mary Gilmer, Harriett Gilmer, Inez Sargent, Lilly May Wiggins, Sue Enteken, Mrs. Henderson, Mark Harris, Buck Weaver, Bill Russell, Bert Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Symmers, Mr. and Mrs. Lefty Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Acres, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Henderson Garvin and others.

"Flapper Grandmother" Repeated Tonight.

"The Flapper Grandmother" sparkling home-talent musical comedy which was produced Friday evening at the College Park auditorium under the auspices of the College Park Woman's club, scored such a decided hit that the performance is to be repeated Tuesday evening, June 21, at 8 o'clock at the city hall.

"The Flapper Grandmother" has delighted audiences throughout the south and is reaping new laurels with an enthusiastic cast in College Park. The play is described as a regular comedy of merriment—a laugh in every line. The choruses are a supreme combination of pep and beauty, and when "Grandmother" "twiddles" at the men she is wholly irresistible.

The play contains a cast of over fifty. The costumes are beautiful from time to time furnished and glorified into ornament.

But the apron, as some of us still live remember it, meant to protect a woman's dress—all women's, indeed, for the fact of being a "lady" did not spare even this representative of her sex certain domestic duties which were hard on fine clothes, has disappeared with "best" dresses.

And yet—"It is an expensive thing for me to visit Sister Julia in the city," I heard a woman say not long ago, who lives in what all but its inhabitants call a small town—call it its inhabitants and people who live in smaller towns. "The women I know at home have tub dresses, or at least serviceable dresses, for the house, which save their best dresses, and so we need fewer best dresses and keep them longer."

But Sister Julia in the city and all her friends there are dressed up all the time. So when I visit her I have to wear my party things constantly or feel like an orphan.

The condition in America is general enough to be called a national habit. (Possibly the American woman, if it is just American, and therefore everywhere?)

MOREOVER—it is extravagant, but it is entirely reprehensible? What man would not be willing to pay the bills to see his wife dressed up all the time, rather than have her economize in what was once called a wrapper?

The problem, as will be seen, has many angles. I offer it to anybody who wants to work it out.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

INSTALLMENT LXII WORTH LOVING.

Cissy turned around, dialing Landell's hand.

"It's very kind of you," she murmured, "but I think not. Not if you expect me to live in it, Lord Landell."

"But of course I expect you to live in it," he said. "You have talked a great deal about Paris and studying with M. de la Fontaine and summer. You'd be more comfortable in a house of your own."

Cissy's eyes flashed the least little bit and the line of her jaw became prominent, but the quick rise and fall of her breast betrayed a terrible excitement.

"You ought to have everything in the world," Landell went on. "A girl like you."

"I mean to," said Cissy quickly.

"Of course you do—you're a sensible young woman. I've known that from the first time I set eyes on you. Nothing cheap or vulgar about you, Cissy."

"O, yes there is!" Her breath was coming even more quickly now. "It was both cheap and vulgar for me to—let you think what you want to—thought about me. I can't blame you. . . . You see, the fight wouldn't mean anything unless I won it all by myself. I want to be free, and I want to—to be able to hold up my head, you understand."

"But my dear child—"

"No, no, you don't understand. I see that. What I mean is, I can wait for all the things I want—and there's only one thing I really do want. I'll get that, and I don't care how hard I work or what I have to go without. But I—I must do it in my own way."

Landell regarded her critically in the brilliant moonlight, and his voice held a coldly distant note. "I wonder if you quite realize what you're refusing, throwing away?"

"O, yes," she assured him anxiously. "I do apologize. It was entirely my fault. I shouldn't have come here tonight, only I thought it was better to get it over with—clear the air, if you know what I mean."

She began to back towards the long window.

"A better go now," she added.

"The man laughed harshly.

"You're doing this on purpose!" he exclaimed.

"Perhaps—partly," Cissy flashed back. Then her spirit returned with a rush. "You needed to be taught a lesson," she said. "That's what you needed."

She ran into the salon, gathered her cloak and flew out into the dim, softly carpeted corridor before Landell could follow her, even had he chosen to do so.

She had no money with her, but she didn't mind the prospect of walking all the way back to the Valle-rosia valley. It would do her good.

Yes, the air had been cleared and she was beginning to feel better already. She had paid that old man back with interest for something he had done to her, beginning with that afternoon several days ago before her concert when he had insolently trailed her all over Bordichera, down to the quarrel with Willie on his account.

How she wished she could see Willie now, but there wasn't a sign of him, and in the circumstances Cissy scarcely liked to inquire if he was in.

She went slowly down the zig-zag path which looped itself about the palms and massed shrubbery, here and there offshooting to a bench or little summer house where sometimes the gleam of a woman's light frock and a drift of cigar smoke announced the presence of a pair who perhaps were lovers.

Seeing an unoccupied bench, Cissy stepped off the path and sat down, drawing her shabby cloak around her, and pondering bitterly upon her perverse fate. Those who thought she was hard might have changed their opinion could they have seen her wipe tears from her eyes.

Willie Moppet had been dining at the Villa Mona with Sophy and Lilla Brant, but he left early because he knew about Landell's special dinner party. His friend, the hotel proprietor, had told him of it as an interesting bit of gossip, for by this time Anton Bersch had decided that there was nothing between Mr. Moppet and the young singer. Lilla, experienced and inclined Bersch to the opinion that there never was anything serious or abiding in affairs of the heart where Mr. Moppet was concerned.

Willie had departed for the Villa Mona that evening quite intending to stay until they cast him out, and then afterwards he meant to go down to the Casino and do something desperate—lose money as roulette, get tipsy, or perhaps strike up a dubious flirtation with some friendly young girl of the town. Only that last idea if carried into effect might be going too far for Willie Moppet was more careful of his reputation than any modern debutante would think it necessary to be of hers.

In the end, however, he did nothing as planned, but everything different. He got away from the Villa Mona indecently soon after dinner, so quickly and decisively that Sophy Tancred's feelings were hurt and Lilla Brant was secretly intrigued. And then, instead of going to the Casino and doing any of those drastic things he had promised himself, he sneaked back to the Doria and did something rather low.

The royal suite, now Landell's, was at one end of the hotel and the little private terrace abutting on the wall beside that same mule path which led up to the Casa Poverina. There was a great deal of shrubbery by the wall, clumps of lilac and syringa bushes and a bougainvillea vine clinging up to the terrace. Willie let himself into the Doria gardens by a door from the mule path which few people knew about, and shamelessly hid in the shrubbery below Landell's terrace. If he had raised his arm and if Cissy, instead of refusing her elbow on the stone ledge had leaned over and reached down, they could have clasped hands.

But Willie did not advertise his presence, in fact, he secretly allowed himself to breathe, so modest he was about betraying his proximity. If he had asked himself the straight question as to what he was doing there, he would probably have said that it was merely to protect Cissy in case she needed some one in a hurry to come to her assistance. In such an extremity Willie imagined that he would scale the terrace to rescue her. It was not his fault that Cissy was quite able to look after herself.

He knew when she came on the terrace, and when Landell followed her; and then, of course, he heard what they said—almost every word.

Cissy's "I'd better go now" more or less gave Willie his cue, yet he lingered long enough to relish that bit about Landell's needing to be taught a lesson. Cissy hadn't been as harsh as she ought to have been, in Willie Moppet's opinion, but even so she had surprised him, for he expected to be lavished by something quite different.

He sneaked away feeling humble and foolish, and yet curiously happy. Perhaps Cissy didn't love him—perhaps she couldn't—but he could take pride again in the fact that he loved her. She was worth loving after all, and he was going to help her get on with her singing. She'd take help from him, although she wouldn't from Landell. And Willie—who knew his world thoroughly—knew that from now on, Cissy, as well as his mother and himself, could count upon Landell's ill will, either passively or actively expressed.

His delicate position as eavesdropper made it impossible for him to emerge from the shrubbery on to the flat gravelled space below the terrace, for people were strolling about and the lights made the place almost as light as day.

Jack Dempsey Believes He Will Connect With Rickard

Ex-Champ Stops Over Here On Way To N. Y.

Sparring Partners Sought by Manager in New York—Jack Slated To Arrive in Gotham This Morning.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
Jack Dempsey, the ex-champ, spent half an hour in Atlanta Monday. In his wake he left the impression that all would soon be oily between Dempsey and Rickard.

Brown as a coffee seed he was. And husky. Trim. His smile was flashing and confident. From the way he looked, that tough workout in the mountains at Ojai, California, from whence Jack had headed for New York, via New Orleans and Atlanta, wasn't a "lotta hooley," as some folks had characterized it.

"I'm going to string along with Tex. That is, if he offers the right money, and I think he will," said Jack.

Wherein Mr. Dempsey proves his mental mettle. Verily so. Gene Tunney and Jack Sharkey, the smiling confident boy from the home of the Cabots and cods, are stringing along with Tex. Logically these are the two boys for Jack to meet, in reverse order of which they are mentioned. Therefore it seems only logical that Mr. Dempsey would string along with Tex.

The fight in New York this summer has been flopping financially, like the proverbial fish on a sand bank. There's only one explanation for that. Strange to say, New York, the biggest right town on earth isn't big enough to hold two big time promoters. Who are, of course, Tex Rickard and one Mr. Humphrey J. Fugazy, determined to put a crimp in the business of Tex.

Shows Flop.
Mr. Fugazy's shows have flopped. Tex, with his Boston upheaval—Jimmy Mainey and Jack Sharkey—made money. And that's the only one this summer.

But Tex always offers a good card and usually makes money. Which, as Jack intimated, is more reason for linking with Tex.

According to Jack "I ought to be husky. I wasn't 'messing around' out in those mountains." Jerry (that's his personal companion, trainer, cook or what-have-you, Jerry the Greek) made him work. Cutting down trees. Building roads. Taking Cook's tours through the mountains on foot.

If everything runs per schedule, Jack will be in Gotham this morning. To see Tex. And of course discuss matters of a mercenary nature.

The subject of the smiling Mr. Sharkey and the erudite Mr. Tunney was touched upon. Your correspondent was the only one that had anything to say about the previous pair under Tex's wing. Jack didn't. Which is nothing but his usual manner.

Mrs. Dempsey—Estelle Taylor in the movies—was along. Mrs. Dempsey wasn't along last September during the golfs on at St. Philby. But she expects to be this time.

Being in the presence of a famous movie star and the wife of a former world's champion all at the same moment was a novel experience. We asked her questions of a various and sundry nature with an expectant air. Preceding the answer to each question—very gracious they were—was a "yes."

Whereupon we wondered if they

Chicks Fill Sacks in Final Inning But Are Held.

BY TOM THOMPSON.

Everything counted. And for that reason, playing 'em right up to the old belt, the Crackers took the Chicks as Clyde Milan in tow Monday afternoon, 4-3.

In demonstration of these state-matters, the Crackers were out, 9-6, and while 11 Chicks came to grief on the baselines, only a quartet of Crackers found this predicament.

In addition to the fact that the Chicks were a two-inning threat in the final two stanzas, dying each time with the bags drunk. It was in the final, however, that they scored twice before Markle got the hook and forcedly abdicated in favor of Red Bates. Bates promptly began Standard, filling the baselines, and the Chicks were out, 9-6, and while 11 Chicks came to grief on the baselines, only a quartet of Crackers found this predicament.

The first match between the two clubs will get under way following the luncheon at Druid Hills at 12:30. The match has been set for 1 o'clock, to be exact.

Then Thursday the same golfers will journey out to Ansley park for a round of bunker dodging, divot digging and all that takes place in a round of golf.

Lloyd Parks will lead the Druid Hills eight, while Dr. Sage will captain Ansley park's trap and bunker dodgers.

The Presidents' cup tourney matches scheduled for Druid Hills Wednesday are to be played Thursday instead, giving the club teams a shorter course to do their damage on.

ANSLEY PARK DRUID HILLS PLAY MATCH

Two teams of eight golfers, representing Ansley Park and Druid Hills, will clash Wednesday afternoon on the Druid Hills course and Thursday afternoon on Ansley park links.

The first match between the two clubs will get under way following the luncheon at Druid Hills at 12:30. The match has been set for 1 o'clock, to be exact.

SCHMANDT BREAKS ANKLE BUT PLAYS REST OF GAME

Firstbaseman Schmandt, of the Chicks, sustained a broken ankle in the sixth inning of the Cracker-Chick game Monday afternoon. The break occurred when Schmandt twisted his foot in reaching for the bag. However, though he was in a hospital Monday night, with the injured member in a plaster cast, he continued through the game with no perceptible limp.

Manager Clyde Milan said Monday night that he would send Rod Murphy, former Cracker utility man, in at first. He also stated that Rod would probably be used as leadoff man in the batting order.

It was not known how long Schmandt would be inactive, but Manager Milan was sure that it would be at least a pair of weeks.

Crusader, Injured, May Quit Racing

New York, June 20. (AP)—Crusader, famous son of Man-o-War and widely aced as the three-year-old champion of 1926, will be out of the races indefinitely if not for good, it was learned today, as a result of injuries sustained when the thoroughbred was kicked at the post Saturday in the Brooklyn handicap at Aqueduct track.

Crusader, who was owned by Mrs. Dempsey, was injured when he was kicked by a fellow horse at the post Saturday in the Brooklyn handicap at Aqueduct track.

Pirates Shut Out Chicago Cubs, 4 to 0

Meadows Lets Foes Down With Four Hits; Gooch Hits Homer.

Chicago, June 20. (AP)—Lee Meadows held Chicago to four hits and shut them out, 4 to 0, today in the second and final game of the important series involving leadership of the National league. Gooch made a home run in the sixth with two men on bases.

The Cubs filled the bases after two were out in the third but Hack Wilson fanned for the third out. Again in the ninth the home team filled the bases with one down but could not touch Meadows with a scoring pinch.

It was the second straight shutout the respected Pirate pitcher has scored.

An error by Eddie Pick, Chicago's rookie third baseman, paved the way for the Pirates' runs in the sixth. Pick muffed a throw from Stephenson that would have resulted in the third out and Gooch followed with his home run smash.

Pittsburgh scored its fourth run in the ninth on Lloyd Waner's double, a sacrifice and an infield out.

Three fast double plays out the scoring.

Paul Waner, Pirate right fielder, ran the string of consecutive games in which he has hit safely to 23. The record for extra base hitting was halted at 14, however, as he made only two singles in four times up.

28 Atlanta Golfers Seek Southern Amateur Crown

Watts Gunn Bags 78 Over Charlotte Links

Local Golfers Grab Honors in Pro-Amateur Event—Cook Turns 71 79 for Day's Work in Meet.

BY WHITNEY CARY,
Staff Sports Correspondent.

Charlotte, N. C., June 20.—If any superstition exists about sensational golf rounds on the eve of a tournament being an omen of impending disaster in the championship few of the 179 players assembled here to battle for the southern title have little to worry about tonight. For sensational scoring was a dead issue today in the pro-amateur event, which went to the all-Charlotte team composed of Jack Heath, Ed Reid, Jr., F. M. Laxton and Bill Goebel, with an aggregate score of 314. Bill Goebel walked off with the pro trophy by turning in a 74, which was low score for the day in the entire field. Harold Calloway, of LaGrange, won the low gross for the amateurs with a 76.

This pro-amateur event serves as a sort of curtain-raiser to the main event, which gets under way tomorrow morning at the unearthing hour of 8 o'clock, and at the same time is supposed to give one a line on the present form of the potential candidates for the 1927 title. As a curtain-raiser it served its purpose. As an index to the likely contenders it was not so successful. For none of the supposed candidates shot golf that need cause a great amount of concern to any of the lesser lights in the field.

Many High Scores.
A glance at the scoreboard shows a very, very few scoring in the high 70's, while the 80's and 90's are as crowded as the course promises to be tomorrow in this, one of the largest tournaments ever held in the south.

The Atlanta delegation, which numbers 28, did not lag any of the trophies flowing around in the pro-amateur event, but several of its members were among the lowest of the individual scores for the 18 holes.

At the head of the Gate City largest was Watts Gunn, whose 78 looked almost brilliant. But at that Watts was not in his usual form. His tee shots were, as a rule, good in both direction and range, but he was having a world of trouble with his seconds and his long left much to be desired.

His card with par for the course follows:
Par out 443 444 554—37
In 453 444 434—35—72
Gunn, out 553 444 464—40
In 435 454 535—38—78

Chess Lagomarsino, of Atlanta, who played in the same foursome with Watts, started out in splendid fashion and at the turn he 28, one above par, looked like it might be leading him to low-gross trophy. Chess encountered a lot of trouble with his tee shot during the incoming journey, however, and had to be content with an 80. His irons were working well and his putting was good.

If he shoots the same brand of golf tomorrow that he exhibited today there is no question about his getting in the select 32.

Cook Bags 79.
Gene Cook, one of the leading Atlanta threats for the title, turned in a 79. Gene is flashing a fairly steady brand of golf and is going to be watching in the coming tournament. His card follows:
Cook, out 444 455 604—42
In 355 544 443—37—79
Tub Palmer, who is gifted with the unenviable ability to sink putts from unreasonable distances, who hails from Miami and who is looked upon with much consideration when championship material is mentioned, shot a 70 also.

$217 FOR $2 PAID BACKERS BY ANTIMONY

New York, June 20.—(P)—Given less than a chance in 100 to win, Antimony, astounded the pickers of winners today by placing first in the second race at the Blue Bonnets track near Montreal, Canada.

What few backers the low-rated race horse had reaped a golden harvest at pari-mutuel odds of $217.40 to $2. W. T. Trenholme, of Montreal, the owner, also cashed in on an $800 purse as the horse raced home ahead of Arrant Jade and Soubrette.

Other tracks eloquent proof was given that you cannot dope a horse race.
For the second time in recent races, E. M. Byers' bay colt, Houston, made the favorite at Aqueduct and for the second time he was left at the post. As the colt was well-played he burned up a lot of money. Even the addition of blinkers in this event could not avail to get the horse away from the barrier with the rest. Jefferson Livingston's Chestnut, Adams, at 9 to 1, was winner with Red Pate second and Orange third. The event was the featured union claiming stakes at seven furlongs.

H. P. Whitney's Dash Deer paid $10 to $2 in winning the Zoon Elen purse at Latonia, Ky. Willie Garner rode the winner and his uncle Mac Garner, was close behind in the third place on Tum On. Jockey Allen on Helomora was second.

Jockey Yates at Fairmount had a big day, riding three winners in succession and placing second in the next. Every outsider, Twinkling, at $25.20 to $2, came home ahead under his rider.

TRAINER SEEKS EARL SANDE FOR WHISKERY

Latonia, Ky., June 20.—(P)—Whiskery, son of Whiskroom II and Prudery, who has finished on both ends of derbies this season, may enter the Latonia derby Saturday with Earl Sande or George Ellis up.

The Kentucky derby winner, who finished out of the money at the American derby last week, arrived here today with his trainer, Freddie Hopkins.

Hopkins made no statement with regard to reports that the H. P. Whitney nominee would be held out of the Latonia classic and given a rest, but he did say that he would try to get either Sande or Ellis here from the Belmont track to ride Whiskery Saturday.

Hopkins will put the horse through careful handling during the week. Whiskery is favored by track followers if he should start. The track is fast.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

A Big Time Ahead.

Ordinarily a summons to the work bench holds little in the way of anticipation, in fact there is often much of the opposite sentiment involved, but a letter-which awaited our return from Oakmont established the exception, which in turn establishes the rule.

The aforementioned epistle is signed in the flowing hand of Joe Reynolds, sportsman supreme and gentleman as well, who resides in Waynesboro, Ga., and swings a wicked mallet in the staging of the annual field trials of this state.

Joe reminds us that the big registered shoot will be held at Waynesboro on June 23, and also reminds us of a promise made to spend a couple of days as his guest while covering the shoot.

They are happy reminders, and we anticipate nothing less than the view of our lives, which, incidentally, must be SOME time in view of our other trips to Waynesboro.

The shoot is to be the biggest thing of its kind ever held in that section and the list of entries reads like a directory of who's who in the southern world of "pull-bang-dead."

There will be $150 in cash prizes offered as well as trophies valued at $350, but to those who have not visited Waynesboro let us suggest that the winning of one of these trophies will remain secondary to the memory of the hospitality you will find among the field trial gang who run the gun club.

There's one part of the letter which caught our eye and Joe put it first because his acquaintance with our appetite for barbecue made it a cinch that it WOULD catch our eye.

There's going to be a barbecue after the shoot and to those who have partaken of a Waynesboro 'cue nothing more need be said. To those who haven't nothing COULD be said which would be an exaggeration.

Waynesboro is noted for its hospitality and good fellowship but it has other claims to fame which date way back to the time of George Washington when that more than famous general made his residence there for a short time. The house where General Washington stayed will still be pointed out to the visitor as he wanders around the beautiful streets of the little big city.

Taken by and large—as the orator would say—the invitation to Waynesboro may not lure us to that city, but if it doesn't you may wager your last cent that sudden death has struck in the home of one sports scribe.

The Lucky Boys.

Be that as it may, the telephone girl has solved the mystery.

She says that while both Dempsey and Sharkey are bragging about what they are going to do with each other, they should feel lucky that they don't have to meet Tom Armour, the new champion.

A. and M. College, Miss., June 20. Announcement was made today by W. D. Chadwick, director athletics, that J. W. Hancock, former University of Iowa football star, had been assigned as football coach at Mississippi A. and M. college to succeed Bernie Bierman, who resigned in April, to become head coach at Tulane university.

Orange Worm Father 71, Seeks Has Appeared Son, 2, Subject In South Texas Orphan's Home

Washington, June 20.—The quarantining of Texas on account of the prevalence in Hidalgo and Cameron counties of the Mexican orange worm, also known as the Mexican fruit fly, was discussed today at a hearing before the federal horticultural board.

The pest is a menace not only to that region, but also to the citrus fruit industry of Florida, California and the Gulf states, it is alleged.

Arguments in favor of and against the quarantine were heard from representatives of the industry. The board will determine later whether a quarantine shall be imposed. Shipment of fruit from the infested areas under inspection and certification may be possible should the quarantine be placed.

Representatives of the Texas state department of agriculture and the Texas governor discussed the proposed quarantine and officials of the California and Florida departments of agriculture expressed their views. Permission was given by the board for the filing within a week of a brief by the California department and a reply by the Texas interests. The board will decide whether a quarantine will be placed.

6 CONVICTED RUM VIOLATORS START JAIL SENTENCES

Macon, Ga., June 20.—(AP)—Clyde McCook, Pete Modena and George Kiddy, in company with three negroes, left today in custody of United States marshals to start serving their sentences in the Atlanta prison.

McCook was sentenced to serve five years and pay a fine of $10,000; Modena to serve two years and pay a fine of $5,000; Kiddy to serve four years and pay a fine of $5,000, and the negroes to serve two years each.

The negroes are T. J. Clayton, Jim Wright and Dave Goodman.

Federal officials claim that the group were conducting the most extensive liquor operations in this section of the state. They were all tried in May and a motion for retrial was withdrawn when the group agreed to start serving their sentences.

MINISTER FORMS UNION TO BATTLE LIQUOR SELLING

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—More than 2,000 Washington citizens have organized to wage war against bootleggers.

Formed under the name of the City Service Association for Law and Order, a mass meeting last night launched a movement for the private citizens to secure liquor evidence and place it in the hands of the authorities. Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church and the association's president, urged every member of the organization to get every bit of evidence they can lay hands on.

The association does not propose, he said, "to enter private homes or search for pockets of liquor, but where liquor is being sold he said the organization "would do everything in its power to crush that place to the ground."

"Our enemies can call us cellar snipers or any other name they choose, but we won't care," Dr. Abernethy declared.

SECRECY SHROUDS CLEVELAND BANK MERGER PROGRESS

Cleveland, Ohio, June 20.—(AP)—Recent news that merger progress was made today in negotiations looking to affiliation of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Mitten Management, Inc., of Philadelphia, in the conduct of the brotherhood's banking and other business interests.

There were indications that the proposed merger would be consummated by a subcommittee to the full convention today, but no official statement was forthcoming from the convention spokesmen or officers of the brotherhood.

If carried out the proposed alliance would result in Thomas E. Mitten, head of the Mitten company, assuming direction of the brotherhood banks, extending from Boston to the Pacific coast, as well as a directing interest in the organization's other business enterprises, including investment, insurance, real estate and coal companies.

Resources of the present brotherhood holdings are in excess of $80,000,000, and it was declared that if the alliance is made, it will be increased by a substantial amount from new capital, it was said. No indication of what this additional capital would total was forthcoming, but it was said the plan contemplated general expansion of the brotherhood business enterprises.

The matter has been before a special convention committee several days.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

New Orleans Prepares for Defense.

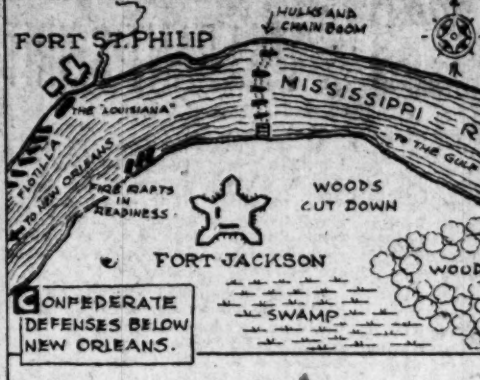

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

WHEN THE CONFEDERATE AUTHORITIES IN NEW ORLEANS LEARNED THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WAS SENDING AN EXPEDITION TO CAPTURE THE CITY AND WREST THE CONTROL OF THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI FROM THE CON-
 FEDERACY, THEY MADE HURRIED PREPARATIONS FOR DEFENSE.

MOST OF THE LOUISIANA REGIMENTS WERE AWAY AT THE FRONT, BUT THERE WAS A FORCE IN NEW ORLEANS UNDER GENERAL
 LOVELL. THE CHIEF DEFENSES OF THE CITY,
 HOWEVER, WERE THE STRONG FORTS JACKSON
 AND ST. PHILIP, WHICH FACED EACH OTHER
 ACROSS THE MISSISSIPPI SOME 75 MILES
 BELOW THE CITY AND 30 MILES ABOVE THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER.

THESE FORTS MOUNTED MANY HEAVY GUNS
 AND EACH WAS GARRISONED BY 700 MEN.
 JUST BELOW THE FORTS THE RIVER WAS BARRED BY A BOOM OF CHAIN CABLES
 STRETCHED ACROSS A NUMBER OF ANCHORED
 HULKS, WHILE UPSTREAM LAY A SMALL FLEET OF RIVER GUNBOATS AND THE RAM "MANASSAS".

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

TWO GREAT IRONCLADS WERE BEING BUILT IN THE LOUISIANA SHIPYARDS AND ONE OF THESE,
 THE "LOUISIANA" (16 GUNS) WAS HURRIEDLY
 COMPLETED AND PUT IN SERVICE. HER ENGINES
 GROVED FAULTY AND SHE WAS MOORED NEAR
 FORT ST. PHILIP TO BE USED AS A STATIONARY
 FLOATING BATTERY.

TOMORROW—FARRAGUT'S FLEET ASSEMBLES.

MRS. BOWMAN LODGED IN CLARKE COUNTY JAIL

Athens, Ga., June 20.—(Special).—Mrs. Anna Bowman, who has been confined in the state insane asylum at Milledgeville since a short time after she shot and killed Guy Thurmond, prominent Barrow county citizen, on the main street of Statham, on May 12, 1925, has been brought to the Clarke county jail here after her release from the state sanatorium. Mrs. Bowman was brought here yesterday by Sheriff H. O. Camp of Barrow county, to whom she was delivered after Dr. R. C. Swint, superintendent of the asylum, had notified court authorities that her mental condition had shown such improvement that she could be released from further treatment at the state institution. G. D. Ross, a Winder attorney who is acting as counsel for Mrs. Bowman, stated today that an application for bond had been filed with Judge W. W. Stark, of the Piedmont circuit, and that a hearing would likely be held within a few days. For the time being, Mrs. Bowman is being held here on a warrant charging murder, sworn out by J. W. Thurmond, father of the slain man, shortly after the shooting. A hearing on this warrant was never held, as it was alleged that Mrs. Bowman went violently insane immediately after the shooting, necessitating her removal to the asylum. Judge Stark, of the Piedmont circuit, has indicated that he will call a special session of the grand jury to investigate the case.

NEGRO CAPTURED ON ROOF AFTER AUTO, FOOT RACE

After an exciting automobile and foot race for several blocks, Fred Douglas, negro, was arrested by City Detective C. E. McCrary and Federal Officer Earl Tull Monday night on top of a building at the intersection of Spring and Baker streets, where he attempted to escape from the officers. He was arrested on a charge of violation of the prohibition laws. The negro was first sighted at Spring and Linden street driving a light coupe. He tried to escape but when the officers crowded him leaped from the running car and began a foot race. The officers abandoned their car and gave chase. COPELAND'S TOLERANT SPIRIT

Moandville, Pa., June 20.—(27)—Pleading for religious tolerance, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, in an address here today declared the time has come "when every true American should re-dedicate himself to the tolerant spirit of our country." Senator Copeland's speech was delivered in connection with the presentation to Allegheny college of a bronze tablet commemorating a letter written in 1824 by Thomas Jefferson to "Emily" Allen, first president of the college. The letter commented upon a library then being developed at Allegheny.

"The doctrines of Thomas Jefferson," Senator Copeland said, "are fought over, praised and condemned, exalted and belittled, just as if he were a living American statesman. His inscription on the tablet, which is the author of the statute of Virginia for religious freedom. To my mind this is a more important legacy than the one which Thomas Jefferson left to the world. His great fight for religious tolerance in Virginia paved the way for similar contests in other states. It is the guarantee of liberty written into the constitution of every state."

"The thing that marks the greatness of America is the fact every person under the flag is free from the taint of suspicion or unjust treatment because of the accident of birth in one religion or another. This is a day when every true American should re-dedicate himself to the tolerant spirit of our country."
